

A320-0-2

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out).

A345-0-2

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You are eating too much. Your tobacco use is increasing.

A455-0-1

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You have less spending money.

A570-0-4

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Your tobacco use is increasing. You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation.

A1140-0-1

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. At work/study you have been late.

A1203-0-5

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You have reduced savings. You are eating too much, less physically active and drinking more alcohol.

A1221-0-3

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. Additionally, in your work/study you have conflict with colleagues.

A1480-0-3

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure).

A1616-0-3

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt.

A1887-0-4

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed. You have less spending money. Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about.

A1990-0-6

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel hopeless. You also feel like a failure. You have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling.

You are less physically active. You spend less time with the people you care about.

A2212-0-2

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You have less spending money and have reduced savings.

A2337-0-1

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You have less spending money.

A2534-0-1

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs.

A2536-0-2

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You have less spending money.

A2537-0-2

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out).

A2572-0-2

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You have less spending money. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A2588-0-1

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed.

A2600-0-1

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You have less spending money.

A2604-0-1

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You have less spending money.

A2638-0-1

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel vulnerable.

A2762-0-3

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You have less spending money. You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol.

A2802-0-1

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You have reduced savings.

A2820-0-2

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. Within your religious/cultural community, you feel that you have shamed your family name. Additionally, in your work/study you have conflict with colleagues.

A2842-0-2

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You have less spending money and have reduced savings.

A2847-0-2

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out).

A2895-0-1

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You are drinking more alcohol.

A2946-0-2

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out).

A2956-0-1

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You have reduced savings.

A2978-0-2

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You are eating too much. Within your religious/cultural community, you feel less connected.

A3015-0-1

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out).

A3031-0-3

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You spend less time attending social events. Additionally, in your work/study you have conflict with colleagues.

A3045-0-5

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure and vulnerable. You have less spending money and are late on bill payments. You are drinking more alcohol.

A3051-0-1

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You have less spending money.

A3053-0-1

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You are drinking more alcohol.

A3066-0-1

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful.

A131-1-1

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You have reduced savings.

A623-1-1

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed.

A706-1-5

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You have less spending money. You are not eating as much as you should. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been late.

A709-1-1

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You have less spending money.

A726-1-2

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You have reduced savings.

A765-1-1

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You have less spending money.

A1466-1-3

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You have reduced savings. You spend less time with the people you care about.

A1570-1-5

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and hopeless. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out).

A1585-1-1

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You have less spending money.

A1807-1-2

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You have less spending money. Within your religious/cultural community, you feel less connected.

A2035-1-1

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt.

A2099-1-1

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You have reduced savings.

A2489-1-1

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You are drinking more alcohol.

A2538-1-2

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out).

A2557-1-1

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You have reduced savings.

A2565-1-1

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You have less spending money.

A2566-1-3

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are drinking more alcohol.

A2614-1-2

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. Your tobacco use is increasing.

A2631-1-2

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You have less spending money and have reduced savings.

A2683-1-5

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food).

A2695-1-2

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out).

A2716-1-1

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You have less spending money.

A2725-1-2

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Your tobacco use is increasing.

A2737-1-3

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You also feel worthless. You have less spending money.

A2778-1-6

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are drinking more alcohol. You spend less time attending social events. At work/study you have been late.

A2851-1-2

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You have less spending money and have reduced savings.

A2903-1-1

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful.

A2919-1-1

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You are drinking more alcohol.

A2925-1-2

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You have reduced savings.

A3036-1-3

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You spend less time attending social events.

A285-2-1

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You spend less time attending social events.

A650-2-2

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance).

A717-2-1

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You are late on bill payments.

A933-2-4

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are drinking more alcohol.

A1065-2-3

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and distressed. You have reduced savings.

A1148-2-3

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about.

A1468-2-2

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You have less spending money.

A1695-2-4

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments.

A2002-2-2

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You have less spending money and have reduced savings.

A2118-2-3

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You have less spending money and have reduced savings.

A2303-2-2

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You spend less time with the people you care about.

A2425-2-2

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You are also self-harming. You have attempted suicide.

A2440-2-4

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You also feel like a failure. You have less spending money and have reduced savings.

A2462-2-1

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You are less physically active.

A2465-2-3

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You spend less time attending social events.

A2528-2-4

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, in your work/study you use resources to gamble.

A2533-2-4

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol.

A2550-2-2

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out).

A2564-2-4

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You have less spending money. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict.

A2622-2-2

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A2663-2-3

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You have less spending money. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and use resources to gamble.

A2726-2-1

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You are less physically active.

A2794-2-5

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices. You feel belittled in your relationship.

A2837-2-2

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. Your tobacco use is increasing.

A2867-2-3

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol.

A2872-2-3

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You have less spending money. Additionally, in your work/study you use resources to gamble.

A2877-2-2

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You are drinking more alcohol. You spend less time attending social events.

A2908-2-4

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. You are drinking more alcohol.

A2987-2-4

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. At work/study you have been absent.

A220-3-7

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are less physically active. Your tobacco use is increasing. You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events.

A234-3-5

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and distressed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out).

A277-3-3

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You have less spending money and have reduced savings.

A321-3-4

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A548-3-7

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and distressed. You have less spending money. You are not eating as much as you should. You are drinking more alcohol. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

A590-3-3

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel vulnerable. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out).

A799-3-4

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You have less spending money. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

A841-3-7

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and distressed. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out).

A1053-3-5

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are drinking more alcohol. You spend less time with the people you care about.

A1165-3-2

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You have less spending money.

A1245-3-4

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and hopeless. You have less spending money. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling.

A1279-3-7

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed and hopeless. You have reduced savings. You are less physically active. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You spend less time with the people you care about. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A1334-3-2

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You have less spending money.

A1377-3-7

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, angry and hopeless. You also feel vulnerable. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You feel belittled in your relationship.

A1481-3-3

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and ashamed. You have reduced savings.

A1587-3-4

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed. You also feel like a failure and vulnerable. You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure).

A1645-3-3

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You have less spending money. You spend less time with the people you care about.

A1739-3-2

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You have reduced savings.

A1756-3-5

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict.

A1801-3-6

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed and hopeless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are less physically active. You spend less time attending social events.

A1846-3-3

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out).

A1916-3-3

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You spend less time with the people you care about.

A1958-3-3

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You have less spending money and have reduced savings.

A2191-3-3

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out).

A2204-3-2

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance).

A2205-3-4

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are less physically active. You are not eating as much as you should.

A2341-3-2

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You have less spending money.

A2370-3-6

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You have reduced savings. You are less physically active. You spend less time with the people you care about. Your relationship has ended. At work/ study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). You are being excluded from study.

A2396-3-2

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You have less spending money.

A2412-3-7

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are not eating as much as you should.

A2464-3-3

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You have less spending money and have reduced savings.

A2626-3-4

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You are less physically active. You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

A2636-3-3

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out).

A2654-3-2

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You spend less time with the people you care about.

A2665-3-4

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You also feel vulnerable. You have less spending money and have reduced savings.

A2666-3-7

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are eating too much and drinking more alcohol. You spend less time attending social events.

A2669-3-5

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time attending social events. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A2709-3-8

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and angry. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol.

A2712-3-2

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You have less spending money.

A2727-3-4

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance).

A2749-3-4

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out).

A2776-3-5

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling.

A2782-3-6

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, angry and distressed. You have less spending money. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

A2938-3-6

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. You have reduced savings. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation.

A2943-3-2

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel hopeless. You also feel like a failure.

A2950-3-2

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You are less physically active. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A2965-3-3

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out).

A2968-3-5

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are drinking more alcohol. You spend less time with the people you care about.

A2988-3-2

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You have less spending money.

A3023-3-6

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol. Your tobacco use is increasing. You spend less time attending social events.

A79-4-6

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are drinking more alcohol.

A123-4-3

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and hopeless. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt.

A177-4-7

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). Your tobacco use is increasing. You spend less time with the people you care about.

A300-4-5

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are experiencing depression.

A358-4-7

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure and worthless. You have less spending money. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. You feel belittled in your relationship.

A372-4-6

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, distressed and hopeless. You have reduced savings. You are less physically active. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices.

A399-4-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, angry, distressed and hopeless. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You are experiencing depression. Your tobacco use is increasing.

A419-4-6

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You have thoughts about escaping. You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active. You spend less time with the people you care about. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

A458-4-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure).

A466-4-7

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and distressed. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol. You spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation.

A576-4-4

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and ashamed. You have less spending money and have reduced savings.

A584-4-3

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You spend less time attending social events.

A632-4-8

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and angry. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling.

A654-4-4

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and angry. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out).

A698-4-7

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and ashamed. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A707-4-3

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. You spend less time with the people you care about.

A823-4-4

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict.

A869-4-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A871-4-6

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

A891-4-4

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You have less spending money. You are less physically active. You spend less time with the people you care about.

A892-4-6

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are drinking more alcohol.

A906-4-7

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and angry. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are experiencing depression. You are not eating as much as you should. You are drinking more alcohol.

A940-4-7

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A961-4-3

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You have less spending money. You are experiencing depression.

A969-4-4

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A999-4-4

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are drinking more alcohol.

A1104-4-7

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, distressed and hopeless. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Your tobacco use is increasing.

A1110-4-4

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure. You have reduced savings. You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling.

A1278-4-6

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You have less spending money, have reduced savings and are late on bill payments. You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

A1284-4-7

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and distressed. You have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You spend less time with the people you care about.

A1311-4-5

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You also feel like a failure. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are eating too much.

A1408-4-7

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so.

A1489-4-5

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are drinking more alcohol.

A1626-4-3

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and ashamed. You have reduced savings.

A1725-4-7

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel hopeless. You also feel like a failure. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You spend less time attending social events. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A1781-4-8

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You experience social isolation. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A1864-4-3

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. At work/study you have been late.

A1872-4-2

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You also leave your children unsupervised.

A1902-4-5

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are drinking more alcohol.

A1955-4-4

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt.

A2133-4-4

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You have less spending money. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict.

A2166-4-4

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You experience social isolation.

A2172-4-9

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and distressed. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You spend less time with the people you care about.

A2185-4-9

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and distressed. You have reduced savings and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol.

A2286-4-7

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and ashamed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are drinking more alcohol. Within your religious/cultural community, you feel less connected. You spend less time attending social events.

A2307-4-6

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You have less spending money and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected).

A2343-4-5

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, angry and distressed. You have less spending money. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items.

A2460-4-4

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out).

A2472-4-4

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed. You have reduced savings. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are eating too much.

A2552-4-5

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You spend less time attending social events. At work/study you have been late.

A2555-4-6

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and distressed. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out).

A2645-4-4

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out).

A2672-4-7

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are less physically active. You are not eating as much as you should. You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A2675-4-6

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You have less spending money. You are eating too much.

A2780-4-9

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. You also feel vulnerable. You have less spending money. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A2784-4-5

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A2865-4-6

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol.

A2873-4-8

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are eating too much. Your tobacco use is increasing. You spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. At work/study you have been late.

A2893-4-4

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You are drinking more alcohol.

A2915-4-3

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Within your religious/cultural community, you feel that you have shamed your family name.

A2939-4-5

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should.

A2953-4-5

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol.

A3056-4-7

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You have also taken on additional employment. You are experiencing depression. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A3072-4-8

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and angry. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are less physically active. Your tobacco use is increasing. You spend less time with the people you care about.

A62-5-6

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel vulnerable and worthless. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

A66-5-4

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You have less spending money. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A101-5-8

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and angry. You have less spending money, have reduced savings and are late on bill payments. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A149-5-5

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are drinking more alcohol.

A167-5-4

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and angry. You have less spending money and have reduced savings.

A186-5-7

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, angry and distressed. You have reduced savings. Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure).

A200-5-8

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and angry. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. You are drinking more alcohol. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A252-5-4

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You also feel vulnerable. You have less spending money and have reduced savings.

A288-5-6

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and distressed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression.

A424-5-6

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are not eating as much as you should.

A425-5-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. Your tobacco use is increasing. You spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A426-5-5

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, angry and distressed. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out).

A442-5-5

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You have thoughts about escaping. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you have conflict with colleagues. You have lost your job.

A464-5-6

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure. You have reduced savings. You are not eating as much as you should. You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A469-5-7

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You have less spending money, have reduced savings and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

A500-5-3

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You have less spending money. Your tobacco use is increasing. You feel belittled in your relationship.

A526-5-3

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure. You have less spending money. You are not eating as much as you should.

A542-5-4

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out).

A580-5-9

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel hopeless. You also feel vulnerable and worthless. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are not eating as much as you should. You spend less time with the people you care about. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A591-5-5

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs.

A637-5-4

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and distressed. You have less spending money and have reduced savings.

A648-5-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are eating too much. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A655-5-5

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry, distressed and hopeless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out).

A657-5-6

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are not eating as much as you should. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

A757-5-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You have also taken on additional employment and have lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are eating too much. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts. Within your religious/cultural community, you feel less connected. You spend less time with the people you care about. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been late.

A801-5-7

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and ashamed. You also feel vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You have less spending money. You are experiencing depression. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict.

A822-5-7

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out).

A828-5-6

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are eating too much and drinking more alcohol.

A851-5-7

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You also feel like a failure. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling.

A916-5-4

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are drinking more alcohol. You spend less time with the people you care about.

A951-5-6

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and angry. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are not eating as much as you should.

A995-5-6

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and distressed. You have reduced savings. You are not eating as much as you should.

A998-5-9

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active. You are not eating as much as you should. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A1008-5-5

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. You have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You spend less time with the people you care about.

A1031-5-8

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You also feel vulnerable. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You spend less time attending social events. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A1037-5-4

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. You are drinking more alcohol.

A1044-5-5

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. You also feel like a failure. You have less spending money. You are drinking more alcohol.

A1081-5-4

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out).

A1087-5-9

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and distressed. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You have also taken on additional employment. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

A1093-5-7

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and distressed. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol. You spend less time with the people you care about.

A1116-5-5

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You have less spending money. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You spend less time with the people you care about.

A1172-5-6

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You spend less time attending social events. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

A1225-5-8

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are eating too much. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict.

A1231-5-7

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel vulnerable. You have less spending money. You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and experience social isolation. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

A1258-5-9

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and distressed. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices and feel less connected.

A1348-5-8

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You are less physically active. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and feel belittled in your relationship.

A1402-5-7

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure. You have reduced savings. You are experiencing depression. You are less physically active and neglecting your hygiene. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You spend less time with the people you care about.

A1416-5-4

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel vulnerable. You have less spending money. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A1420-5-11

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are drinking more alcohol. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict.

A1438-5-9

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and ashamed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You are less physically active. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

A1450-5-6

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and ashamed. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments.

A1469-5-8

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are less physically active. You spend less time with the people you care about.

A1478-5-9

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and distressed. You also feel vulnerable. You have reduced savings and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are drinking more alcohol.

A1487-5-5

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and ashamed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling.

A1555-5-3

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You have less spending money. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict.

A1586-5-7

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are drinking more alcohol.

A1722-5-6

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure).

A1808-5-7

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and distressed. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out).

A1941-5-4

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt.

A1963-5-4

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You spend less time attending social events.

A1984-5-7

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and angry. You have reduced savings and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You are drinking more alcohol. You feel belittled in your relationship.

A2001-5-4

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A2007-5-7

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and ashamed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are not eating as much as you should. Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast. You experience social isolation.

A2065-5-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are less physically active. You are not eating as much as you should. You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. At work/study you have been late and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A2103-5-5

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You have reduced savings. You are not eating as much as you should. You spend less time with the people you care about. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A2168-5-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You spend less time attending social events. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A2196-5-4

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling.

A2201-5-7

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel vulnerable. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events.

A2202-5-8

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel vulnerable. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol. Your tobacco use is increasing. You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events.

A2257-5-9

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and angry. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are less physically active. Your tobacco use is increasing.

A2263-5-9

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and distressed. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are drinking more alcohol. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

A2272-5-7

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active.

A2296-5-6

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and ashamed. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are drinking more alcohol.

A2334-5-4

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about.

A2344-5-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, angry and distressed. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict.

A2378-5-6

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You have reduced savings, are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling.

A2402-5-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You have less spending money, have reduced savings and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are drinking more alcohol. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. At work/study you have been late and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A2504-5-7

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and angry. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict.

A2571-5-5

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices. You spend less time with the people you care about. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A2596-5-5

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict.

A2625-5-2

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel extremely distressed. You are less physically active.

A2649-5-5

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues).

A2691-5-4

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You have less spending money. You have also taken on additional employment. You spend less time with the people you care about. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A2703-5-9

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and hopeless. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are drinking more alcohol. At work/study you have been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A2730-5-7

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and distressed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol. You spend less time attending social events.

A2800-5-7

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and ashamed. You have less spending money. You are less physically active. You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A2815-5-4

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. At work/study you have been late and been absent. You are being excluded from study.

A2854-5-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol. You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. You feel belittled in your relationship.

A2958-5-7

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. You also feel like a failure. You have thoughts about escaping. You have less spending money. Within your religious/cultural community, you feel that you have shamed your family name. You feel belittled in your relationship.

A2990-5-6

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A3054-5-9

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel hopeless. You also feel like a failure and worthless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict.

A3055-5-7

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and distressed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. You are engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). Additionally, in your work/study you use resources to gamble.

A26-6-6

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and angry. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You spend less time with the people you care about.

A65-6-7

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

A71-6-4

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You have less spending money. Your tobacco use is increasing. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A150-6-4

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel extremely distressed. You have less spending money. You are less physically active.

A166-6-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are eating too much, drinking more alcohol and neglecting your hygiene. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. At work/study you have been absent.

A196-6-9

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and distressed. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. You are less physically active. You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

A213-6-5

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and ashamed. You have less spending money. You experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict.

A237-6-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and ashamed. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time attending social events.

A243-6-7

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and distressed. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. You feel belittled in your relationship.

A275-6-12

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You also feel vulnerable. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. You spend less time with the people you care about. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A351-6-4

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. You have less spending money. Your tobacco use is increasing.

A354-6-13

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are drinking more alcohol. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have been late, been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A391-6-13

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel vulnerable. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A514-6-5

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and hopeless. You have less spending money. Your tobacco use is increasing. You spend less time with the people you care about.

A521-6-5

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You have less spending money. You have also taken on additional employment. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol.

A641-6-9

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You have less spending money, have reduced savings and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. Your tobacco use is increasing. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. At work/study you have been absent. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and have conflict with colleagues.

A693-6-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You also feel extremely distressed. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You are engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. Your relationship has ended.

A725-6-11

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are experiencing depression. You are drinking more alcohol. You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended.

A779-6-9

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A780-6-6

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. You are drinking more alcohol. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

A784-6-8

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and angry. You also feel like a failure. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

A868-6-12

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been late and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A912-6-9

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are less physically active.

A949-6-6

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are drinking more alcohol.

A978-6-13

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You have also gone bankrupt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are drinking more alcohol. You spend less time attending social events. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A1000-6-5

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You also feel like a failure. You have less spending money. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and experience social isolation.

A1025-6-6

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, angry, distressed and hopeless. You have reduced savings. You spend less time attending social events.

A1045-6-13

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. You also feel extremely distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are eating too much. Within your religious/cultural community, you feel that you have shamed your family name. You spend less time attending social events. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A1112-6-11

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol. You are not eating as much as you should. You are engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues).

A1124-6-7

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You have also taken on additional employment. You are drinking more alcohol. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict.

A1160-6-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and distressed. You also feel like a failure and vulnerable. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You spend less time with the people you care about.

A1200-6-7

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and angry. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events.

A1210-6-9

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and ashamed. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict.

A1238-6-7

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and distressed. You have less spending money. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. Your tobacco use is increasing.

A1273-6-8

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and ashamed. You also feel extremely distressed. You have less spending money and are late on bill payments. You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are drinking more alcohol. You spend less time with the people you care about.

A1373-6-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol.

A1384-6-6

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are drinking more alcohol.

A1397-6-7

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A1437-6-5

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and angry. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out).

A1474-6-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and ashamed. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are experiencing depression. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You feel belittled in your relationship. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A1512-6-7

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings. You are drinking more alcohol. Within your religious/cultural community, you feel that you have shamed your family name. You spend less time with the people you care about. At work/study you have been late.

A1546-6-9

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, angry and distressed. You have less spending money. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are drinking more alcohol. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

A1656-6-6

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and distressed. You have less spending money and have reduced savings.

A1687-6-9

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel vulnerable. You have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active. You spend less time with the people you care about. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A1855-6-12

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and ashamed. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A1859-6-6

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and angry. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling.

A1909-6-6

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure and worthless. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure).

A1938-6-12

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol. Within your religious/cultural community, you feel less connected. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A1992-6-8

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You spend less time attending social events.

A2032-6-6

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel vulnerable. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol. You spend less time attending social events. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A2052-6-5

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You are not eating as much as you should. You are drinking more alcohol.

A2059-6-6

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You have reduced savings and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. Your tobacco use is increasing.

A2078-6-6

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and ashamed. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are not eating as much as you should.

A2114-6-9

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel extremely distressed. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events.

A2165-6-4

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You also feel extremely distressed. You have less spending money. Your tobacco use is increasing.

A2176-6-13

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. You also feel extremely distressed. You have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are less physically active. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. At work/study you have been late and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A2271-6-7

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, angry, distressed and hopeless. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out).

A2308-6-4

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You have reduced savings. You are drinking more alcohol. You spend less time attending social events.

A2521-6-11

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and ashamed. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. At work/study you have been late and been absent.

A2562-6-7

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You also feel like a failure. You have reduced savings. You are eating too much. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts and have lost your job.

A2563-6-5

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A2576-6-3

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed. You have less spending money. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling.

A2603-6-4

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are drinking more alcohol.

A2678-6-7

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You have reduced savings and are late on bill payments. You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

A2759-6-6

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g.

insurance, car and home maintenance). You have also taken on additional employment. You are eating too much and drinking more alcohol. Your tobacco use is increasing.

A2823-6-4

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You spend less time with the people you care about. Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression.

A2825-6-15

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol. You spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A2864-6-4

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and ashamed. You have less spending money. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

A3070-6-4

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You have less spending money. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

A100-7-8

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. Your tobacco use is increasing. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict.

A114-7-13

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

A169-7-11

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and distressed. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict.

A189-7-12

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You have less spending money and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are drinking more alcohol. You spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

A197-7-9

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are drinking more alcohol.

A198-7-13

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and ashamed. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are drinking more alcohol. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. You feel belittled in your relationship.

A249-7-6

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling.

A254-7-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and hopeless. You also feel like a failure. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A293-7-6

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You also feel like a failure. You have less spending money, have reduced savings and are late on bill payments. You spend less time with the people you care about.

A315-7-7

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and distressed. You have less spending money. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You spend less time with the people you care about.

A325-7-8

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. You also feel extremely distressed. You have less spending money. Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations. Your tobacco use is increasing. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

A334-7-5

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. You have reduced savings. You spend less time with the people you care about. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A346-7-11

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are less physically active. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You spend less time with the people you care about. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A397-7-6

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You have reduced savings and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Your tobacco use is increasing. You feel belittled in your relationship.

A436-7-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and hopeless. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation.

A441-7-6

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You have less spending money. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and use resources to gamble.

A485-7-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, angry, distressed and hopeless. You have less spending money, have reduced savings and are late on bill payments. You are not eating as much as you should. You are drinking more alcohol. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about.

A497-7-7

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A625-7-12

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. You have also taken on additional employment. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should.

A644-7-6

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

A673-7-12

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. At work/study you have been late. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A676-7-13

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are eating too much, less physically active and drinking more alcohol. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. At work/study you have been late.

A733-7-9

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are eating too much and less physically active. Your tobacco use is increasing. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended.

A789-7-6

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel vulnerable. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are less physically active. You spend less time attending social events.

A831-7-11

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are experiencing depression. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A834-7-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and angry. You also feel like a failure. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A857-7-6

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. You have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are less physically active. You spend less time with the people you care about.

A870-7-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry, distressed and hopeless. You have reduced savings. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. You are eating too much and less physically active. You spend less time attending social events.

A879-7-15

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have less spending money. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are drinking more alcohol. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

A920-7-7

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and distressed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments.

A927-7-11

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have been late.

A944-7-6

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You also feel extremely distressed. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling.

A945-7-8

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You also feel vulnerable. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

A984-7-6

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You have less spending money. You are experiencing depression.

A989-7-11

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. Your tobacco use is increasing. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict.

A1061-7-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You spend less time attending social events. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A1084-7-11

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You have reduced savings, are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also lost assets. You are drinking more alcohol. You spend less time with the people you care about. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A1095-7-13

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, angry and hopeless. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much, less physically active and drinking more alcohol. Your tobacco use is increasing. You spend less time with the people you care about. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A1134-7-12

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel hopeless. You also feel worthless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items and have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You are eating too much. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A1135-7-6

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and distressed. You have reduced savings. Your tobacco use is increasing. You experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

A1143-7-16

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, angry, distressed and hopeless. Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active, drinking more alcohol and neglecting your hygiene. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You experience social isolation. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A1182-7-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are neglecting your hygiene. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended.

A1190-7-6

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You spend less time attending social events.

A1230-7-13

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and angry. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol. You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A1283-7-7

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and angry. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol.

A1335-7-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and angry. You also feel extremely distressed. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You spend less time with the people you care about. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A1379-7-11

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, angry, distressed and hopeless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues).

A1386-7-9

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You also feel like a failure. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling.

A1467-7-8

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and ashamed. You also feel like a failure. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Your tobacco use is increasing. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

A1484-7-6

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You have less spending money. You are experiencing depression. You are eating too much and drinking more alcohol. Your tobacco use is increasing. You feel belittled in your relationship.

A1517-7-8

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A1531-7-9

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and angry. You also feel like a failure. You have reduced savings and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are drinking more alcohol.

A1541-7-8

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are not eating as much as you should. You are drinking more alcohol. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices and feel less connected.

A1542-7-13

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You also feel like a failure. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. Your tobacco use is increasing. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about.

A1577-7-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and distressed. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A1582-7-14

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and angry. You also feel like a failure and vulnerable. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are experiencing depression. You are eating too much and drinking more alcohol. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You are engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You spend less time with the people you care about.

A1647-7-15

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and distressed. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

A1660-7-7

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and distressed. You have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much.

A1670-7-6

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You have less spending money. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol.

A1676-7-13

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You also feel like a failure. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A1779-7-7

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A1797-7-7

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and ashamed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A1799-7-9

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and distressed. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are drinking more alcohol. You spend less time with the people you care about.

A1806-7-7

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You also feel extremely distressed. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. You are experiencing depression.

A1827-7-14

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel vulnerable. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol.

A1833-7-15

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, distressed and hopeless. You also feel vulnerable. You have less spending money. You are experiencing depression. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. At work/study you have been late, been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression.

A1891-7-6

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and ashamed. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. You are experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure).

A2054-7-14

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You are less physically active. You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts and leave your children unsupervised. You spend less time with the people you care about. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts and have lost your job.

A2195-7-14

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and angry. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. You are less physically active. You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A2213-7-17

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and distressed. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are eating too much and drinking more alcohol. Your tobacco use is increasing. You spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict.

A2250-7-9

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and hopeless. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A2266-7-14

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, vulnerable and worthless. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are not eating as much as you should. You spend less time attending social events.

A2267-7-11

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, vulnerable and worthless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are experiencing depression.

A2302-7-5

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure and worthless. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

A2346-7-6

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out).

A2361-7-9

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel hopeless. You also feel like a failure. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation.

A2382-7-7

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and hopeless. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

A2389-7-15

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure and vulnerable. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices. You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events.

A2415-7-9

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and distressed. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much.

A2447-7-8

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation.

A2450-7-9

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and angry. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol. You spend less time attending social events.

A2457-7-8

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You have less spending money. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are less physically active. You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A2473-7-5

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation.

A2499-7-5

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict.

A2516-7-6

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are not eating as much as you should. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A2544-7-14

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure and worthless. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. You are less physically active. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices and feel less connected. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

A2582-7-5

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You have reduced savings and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You have also lost assets. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling.

A2598-7-15

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and ashamed. You also feel vulnerable and worthless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are not eating as much as you should. You are drinking more alcohol. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. Within your religious/cultural community, you feel less connected. You experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression.

A2601-7-13

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and distressed. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are less physically active. You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A2602-7-9

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed. You also feel vulnerable. You have reduced savings. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active. You spend less time with the people you care about.

A2620-7-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are less physically active. You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events.

A2681-7-8

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings. You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. Within your religious/cultural community, you feel that you have shamed your family name. You spend less time with the people you care about. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

A2696-7-9

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, angry and hopeless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). Your tobacco use is increasing. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A2711-7-7

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You also feel extremely distressed. You have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Your tobacco use is increasing. Within your religious/cultural community, you feel less connected. You spend less time with the people you care about. At work/study you have been late.

A2775-7-13

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and ashamed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You are experiencing depression. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol. You are engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You spend less time attending social events. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. Additionally, in your work/study you use resources to gamble.

A2809-7-12

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, distressed and hopeless. You have less spending money. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active. You experience social isolation. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A2819-7-13

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. You have also lost assets. You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are not eating as much as you should. Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time with the people you care about. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts and are being excluded from study.

A2868-7-8

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You spend less time with the people you care about. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A2874-7-13

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much, less physically active, drinking more alcohol and neglecting your hygiene. You spend less time attending social events. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and feel belittled in your relationship. Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

A2948-7-8

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed and worthless. You have less spending money. You are neglecting your hygiene.

A2979-7-5

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You have thoughts about escaping. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. You are not eating as much as you should.

A2982-7-7

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You spend less time attending social events.

A3004-7-13

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, angry and hopeless. You have less spending money, have reduced savings and are late on bill payments. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. You are eating too much. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time attending social events. At work/study you have been late. Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression.

A3025-7-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You also feel extremely distressed. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are less physically active. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. You feel belittled in your relationship. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A3029-7-14

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are drinking more alcohol. You spend less time attending social events. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A3063-7-9

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and hopeless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol. At work/study you have been late.

A9-8-7

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed and hopeless. You have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You spend less time with the people you care about. Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression.

A96-8-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and angry. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are experiencing depression. You are drinking more alcohol. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A111-8-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You have less spending money. Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You also leave your children unsupervised. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. At work/study you have been late.

A113-8-6

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed and hopeless. You have reduced savings. You are eating too much. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression.

A155-8-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and distressed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol. You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A175-8-15

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings. Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also needed emergency accommodation. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are drinking more alcohol. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. At work/study you have been late, been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A180-8-11

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. You have less spending money, have reduced savings and are late on bill payments. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression.

A235-8-13

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and angry. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been absent. Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression and have conflict with colleagues.

A262-8-8

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are not eating as much as you should. You are drinking more alcohol. You spend less time attending social events.

A287-8-6

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and hopeless. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are less physically active. Your tobacco use is increasing. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A335-8-8

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings. You are not eating as much as you should. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

A344-8-11

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You also feel vulnerable. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are experiencing depression. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended.

A405-8-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. You feel belittled in your relationship.

A414-8-16

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless.

You also feel like a failure, vulnerable and worthless. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict.

A421-8-6

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You have reduced savings and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. At work/study you have been late.

A445-8-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and ashamed. You also feel like a failure. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. You are eating too much. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A501-8-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are eating too much.

A509-8-13

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel extremely distressed. You have reduced savings. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active. Your tobacco use is increasing. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. At work/study you have been late. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A519-8-17

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You have reduced savings, are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed to sell personal items. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are drinking more alcohol. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A573-8-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel vulnerable. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. You are experiencing depression. You are eating too much. You spend less time with the people you care about. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A579-8-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You also feel vulnerable. You have reduced savings and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

A639-8-14

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items, needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are experiencing depression. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should.

A711-8-14

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, angry and distressed. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also taken on additional employment. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol. Additionally, in your work/study you have conflict with colleagues.

A846-8-14

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A847-8-11

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed. You have less spending money. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict.

A928-8-8

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure and vulnerable. You have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are not eating as much as you should. You spend less time attending social events.

A946-8-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol. Your tobacco use is increasing. You spend less time attending social events.

A983-8-8

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are not eating as much as you should. You are drinking more alcohol. At work/study you have been late and been absent.

A1033-8-12

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed. You also feel vulnerable. You have reduced savings. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much and drinking more alcohol. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. Additionally, in your work/study you have conflict with colleagues.

A1074-8-7

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and distressed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You spend less time with the people you care about.

A1138-8-16

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are less physically active. Your tobacco use is increasing. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events.

A1141-8-16

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are less physically active, drinking more alcohol, neglecting your hygiene and neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events.

A1149-8-7

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and distressed. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt.

A1191-8-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and hopeless. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are less physically active. You are not eating as much as you should. You are engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation.

A1257-8-14

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You also feel extremely distressed. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. You are experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

A1294-8-11

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are drinking more alcohol. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A1323-8-9

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts. You are engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues).

A1339-8-5

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You also feel extremely distressed. You have reduced savings. You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure).

A1361-8-18

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, distressed and hopeless. You also feel vulnerable. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you have conflict with colleagues.

A1390-8-11

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, distressed and hopeless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). At work/study you have been late.

A1409-8-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. You have less spending money. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. You are eating too much and drinking more alcohol. Within your religious/cultural community, you feel less connected. You spend less time attending social events.

A1410-8-19

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and distressed. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much, drinking more alcohol and neglecting your hygiene. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices and feel less connected. You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have been absent. Additionally, in your work/study you have conflict with colleagues.

A1424-8-11

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You have less spending money, have reduced savings and are late on bill payments. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A1537-8-18

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You have less spending money. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed to sell personal items. You have also taken on additional employment. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and feel belittled in your relationship.

A1547-8-11

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and distressed. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. You are experiencing depression. You are less physically active. Your tobacco use is increasing. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

A1571-8-12

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You are experiencing depression. You are less physically active. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time with the people you care about.

A1595-8-8

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and distressed. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events.

A1611-8-13

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You have also taken on additional employment. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are less physically active. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about.

A1615-8-12

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed. You are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A1663-8-11

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and lack progression.

A1681-8-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel hopeless. You also feel vulnerable. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation.

A1685-8-17

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. You are drinking more alcohol. You spend less time attending social events.

A1726-8-13

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You are neglecting your hygiene. You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). You spend less time attending social events. Your relationship has ended. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts and have lost your job.

A1765-8-13

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are less physically active. You spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation.

A1775-8-9

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You also feel like a failure. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are less physically active. You experience social isolation.

A1821-8-11

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, angry, distressed and hopeless. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression.

A1857-8-12

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and ashamed. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol. Within your religious/cultural community, you feel less connected.

A1875-8-11

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. You are experiencing depression. You are eating too much. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A1911-8-7

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and hopeless. You have less spending money. You are neglecting your hygiene. You spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression.

A1935-8-17

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, distressed and hopeless. You also feel vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are less physically active, drinking more alcohol and neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You experience social isolation. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

A1936-8-6

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A1956-8-14

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and distressed. You also feel vulnerable. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You are not eating as much as you should. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time with the people you care about. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A2072-8-7

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You spend less time with the people you care about. At work/study you have been late.

A2091-8-13

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You also feel like a failure and worthless. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed to sell personal items. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are less physically active. You are not eating as much as you should. You experience social isolation.

A2107-8-7

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and hopeless. You have less spending money. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed to sell personal items. You are drinking more alcohol. You spend less time with the people you care about.

A2180-8-13

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You also feel extremely distressed. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You spend less time with the people you care about. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A2188-8-16

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, angry and hopeless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active. You are not eating as much as you should. You spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A2223-8-9

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and ashamed. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression.

A2246-8-16

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You also feel extremely distressed. You have reduced savings and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are not eating as much as you should. You are drinking more alcohol. You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. Additionally, in your work/study you have conflict with colleagues.

A2276-8-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are experiencing depression. You are less physically active.

A2317-8-8

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed and hopeless. You have reduced savings. You are less physically active. You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression.

A2369-8-14

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You also feel like a failure. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are eating too much. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You feel belittled in your relationship. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A2371-8-9

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and angry. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. You are drinking more alcohol. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

A2388-8-9

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. You have reduced savings.

Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are not eating as much as you should. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A2397-8-9

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure and worthless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments.

A2417-8-13

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much.

A2431-8-9

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You have also lost assets. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol.

A2445-8-14

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You also feel like a failure. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. You are experiencing depression. You are drinking more alcohol. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

A2476-8-13

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices. You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have been late. Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression.

A2493-8-12

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). Your tobacco use is increasing. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A2501-8-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol. You spend less time with the people you care about. At work/study you have been late and been absent.

A2574-8-17

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You also feel extremely distressed and worthless. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also needed emergency accommodation and have lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are less physically active. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities, feel belittled in your relationship and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been late and been absent. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A2748-8-13

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You also feel like a failure and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. At work/study you have been absent. Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression.

A2771-8-17

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You also feel extremely distressed. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. You are drinking more alcohol. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

A2773-8-17

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, angry, distressed and hopeless. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are experiencing depression. You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

A2840-8-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, angry and distressed. You also feel like a failure. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A2880-8-9

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing.

A3006-8-12

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed. You also feel like a failure and vulnerable. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are not eating as much as you should. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A3011-8-7

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, distressed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. Your tobacco use is increasing.

A21-9-22

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items and have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much and less physically active. Your tobacco use is increasing. You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). You spend less time with the people you care about. You neglect your relationship responsibilities, feel belittled in your relationship and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A29-9-24

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure. You have reduced savings and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much, less physically active and neglecting your hygiene. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts and do not attend fully to your children's needs. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A69-9-11

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, distressed and hopeless. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. You are experiencing depression. You are drinking more alcohol. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict.

A84-9-11

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, angry and hopeless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol.

A112-9-18

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and angry. You also feel extremely distressed. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. You are less physically active. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A116-9-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and ashamed. You also feel like a failure. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You spend less time with the people you care about. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and use resources to gamble.

A125-9-11

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been late. You have lost your job.

A132-9-8

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry, distressed and hopeless. You have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. Within your religious/cultural community, you feel less connected. You experience social isolation. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A137-9-14

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

A161-9-17

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel worthless. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are also self-harming.

A183-9-6

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel extremely distressed. You are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items and have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are less physically active.

A191-9-18

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts and do not attend fully to your children's needs. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been late and been absent.

A208-9-17

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and distressed. You also feel like a failure. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are experiencing depression. Your tobacco use is increasing. You spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have been late.

A224-9-18

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and distressed. You also feel like a failure. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. You are less physically active. You are not eating as much as you should. You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and feel belittled in your relationship.

A233-9-17

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and ashamed. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. You are eating too much and less physically active. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices. You are engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You spend less time with the people you care about. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A255-9-22

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. You also feel like a failure. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are drinking more alcohol. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices. You spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. You feel belittled in your relationship and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been late. Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

A264-9-13

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and angry. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have been late.

A291-9-12

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You have reduced savings and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A310-9-6

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel hopeless. You also feel like a failure. You have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You experience social isolation. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A318-9-19

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel hopeless. You also feel like a failure and worthless. You have reduced savings and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items and have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You have also needed emergency accommodation. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast and feel less connected. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been absent. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

A357-9-15

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and distressed. You also feel like a failure. You have less spending money. You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol. Your tobacco use is increasing. You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A368-9-13

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You have less spending money. Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations.

You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts and have been arrested for unsafe driving. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been late. You have lost your job.

A402-9-12

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are less physically active, drinking more alcohol and neglecting your hygiene. Your tobacco use is increasing. You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression. You have lost your job.

A431-9-8

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and distressed. You are late on bill payments. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts.

A435-9-23

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol. Your tobacco use is increasing. You also have been arrested for unsafe driving. You spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A437-9-12

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You have thoughts about escaping. You are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items and have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

A459-9-11

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active. You spend less time with the people you care about. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). You have lost your job.

A475-9-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and distressed. You also feel vulnerable. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are experiencing depression. You experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A480-9-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and ashamed. You have thoughts about escaping. You have less spending money. You are less physically active. Within your religious/cultural community, you feel less connected. You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A488-9-8

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed and hopeless. You have reduced savings. Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You are less physically active. You spend less time with the people you care about. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A550-9-19

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A585-9-16

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are not eating as much as you should. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

A600-9-8

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. You have reduced savings. Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You are less physically active. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You spend less time with the people you care about. Your relationship has ended.

A620-9-13

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and distressed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed to sell personal items. You have also taken on additional employment. You are experiencing depression. You are neglecting your hygiene. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You spend less time with the people you care about. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A631-9-22

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure and worthless. You have reduced savings and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices and feel less connected. You spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. At work/study you have been late. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and lack progression.

A638-9-20

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. You are drinking more alcohol. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict.

A665-9-9

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, distressed and hopeless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are drinking more alcohol. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A690-9-14

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You have thoughts about escaping. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You have also taken on additional employment, lost assets and have lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are neglecting your hygiene. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been absent. You are being excluded from study.

A722-9-24

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and hopeless. You also feel like a failure and vulnerable. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are drinking more alcohol and neglecting your hygiene. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have been late, been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble, lack progression and use resources to gamble. You have lost your job.

A739-9-8

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. You are drinking more alcohol.

A745-9-14

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure and vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses

(e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol.

A747-9-13

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel hopeless. You also feel like a failure. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are not eating as much as you should. You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts and have been arrested for unsafe driving. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been late. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts and have lost your job.

A773-9-14

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and distressed. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed to sell personal items. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are drinking more alcohol. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A774-9-12

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and distressed. You also feel vulnerable. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling.

A795-9-9

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food).

A861-9-18

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel worthless. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are drinking more alcohol. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. At work/study you have been late and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A865-9-13

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You also feel extremely distressed. You have less spending money. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You have also lost assets. You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts and do not attend fully to your children's needs. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been late. You have lost your job.

A941-9-13

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You also feel like a failure. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are eating too much and drinking more alcohol. Your tobacco use is increasing. At work/study you have been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and use resources to gamble.

A1013-9-20

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items, needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking, promising to pay back money without intending to do so and engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have been absent.

A1026-9-7

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You have reduced savings and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression.

A1039-9-20

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You spend less time attending social events. At work/study you have been late and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

A1062-9-13

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and hopeless. You have less spending money, have reduced savings and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are less physically active. Within your religious/cultural community, you feel less connected and feel that you have shamed your family name. You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. At work/study you have been late.

A1091-9-15

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and distressed. You have less spending money, have reduced savings and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have been late and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A1092-9-13

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, distressed and hopeless. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You are experiencing depression. Your tobacco use is increasing. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts. You are engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues).

A1094-9-8

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and worthless. You have reduced savings. You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. You feel belittled in your relationship and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

A1123-9-9

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are drinking more alcohol. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A1177-9-21

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and vulnerable. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You have also needed emergency accommodation and have lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are eating too much and neglecting your hygiene. You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices, are an outcast and feel that you have shamed your family name. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been absent. Additionally, in your work/study you use resources to gamble.

A1322-9-13

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A1324-9-12

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You also feel extremely distressed. You have also taken on additional employment and have lost assets. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so and engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. At work/study you have been absent. You have lost your job.

A1328-9-12

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You have also gone bankrupt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. Your relationship has ended. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble. You are being excluded from study.

A1337-9-11

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and hopeless. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. You are drinking more alcohol. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A1347-9-8

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. You are less physically active and neglecting your hygiene. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events.

A1349-9-17

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You also feel extremely distressed. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much. Your tobacco use is increasing.

A1357-9-19

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, distressed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure and vulnerable. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are less physically active. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs and leave your children unsupervised. You spend less time with the people you care about. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A1374-9-13

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You have less spending money and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are drinking more alcohol. You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. At work/study you have been late and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A1383-9-9

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You have reduced savings. You are less physically active. You spend less time with the people you care about. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble. You are being excluded from study.

A1394-9-12

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, distressed and hopeless. You have reduced savings. You have also gone bankrupt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). Within your religious/cultural community, you feel that you have shamed your family name. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. You are being excluded from study.

A1398-9-12

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You also feel extremely distressed. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are less physically active. You experience social isolation. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A1415-9-17

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and distressed. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and feel belittled in your relationship. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and use resources to gamble.

A1422-9-13

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are less physically active. You are not eating as much as you should. You spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A1430-9-8

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You also feel extremely distressed. You have less spending money. You are less physically active. Within your religious/cultural community, you feel less connected. You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. At work/study you have been late.

A1444-9-6

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You also feel extremely distressed. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are experiencing depression. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

A1458-9-9

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, angry and distressed. You also feel vulnerable. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt.

A1507-9-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. You have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are less physically active. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You spend less time with the people you care about. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been late. Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression.

A1545-9-15

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, vulnerable and worthless. You have reduced savings. Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You are not eating as much as you should. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts and do not attend fully to your children's needs. You spend less time with the people you care about. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

A1548-9-15

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, angry and distressed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol. You spend less time attending social events. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A1559-9-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel vulnerable. You have also taken on additional employment and have lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are not eating as much as you should. You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts. Within your religious/cultural community, you feel less connected. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble. You are being excluded from study.

A1566-9-12

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You have thoughts about escaping. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You have also lost assets. You are neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices. You spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. At work/study you have been late. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble. You are being excluded from study.

A1572-9-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are drinking more alcohol. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A1606-9-12

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You also feel extremely distressed. You have reduced savings. You have also needed emergency accommodation. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You have attempted suicide. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts and do not attend fully to your children's needs. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been late. You are being excluded from study.

A1610-9-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, angry and hopeless. You also feel vulnerable. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are not eating as much as you should. You spend less time with the people you care about. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A1624-9-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You have reduced savings. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are less physically active. You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A1628-9-14

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are less physically active. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

A1639-9-13

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are less physically active. You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts. You spend less time with the people you care about. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). You have lost your job.

A1646-9-6

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed and hopeless. You have reduced savings. You have also lost assets. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. At work/study you have been late.

A1678-9-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You also feel extremely distressed. You have reduced savings and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You are eating too much. Within your religious/cultural community, you feel less connected. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. Additionally, in your work/study you use resources to gamble.

A1691-9-12

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel hopeless. You also feel like a failure. You have reduced savings. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed to sell personal items. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are drinking more alcohol. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been late. Additionally, in your work/study you use resources to gamble.

A1698-9-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and angry. You also feel vulnerable. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are less physically active. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time attending social events.

A1705-9-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You have reduced savings and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation.

A1717-9-11

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts and are being excluded from study.

A1730-9-6

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You are late on bill payments. You are drinking more alcohol. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. Additionally, in your work/study you use resources to gamble.

A1783-9-11

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You have less spending money. You have also lost assets and have lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been absent.

A1791-9-15

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. You also feel worthless. You have less spending money, have reduced savings and are late on bill payments. You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are experiencing depression. You are not eating as much as you should. Within your religious/cultural community, you feel that you have shamed your family name. You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and lack progression.

A1881-9-16

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, angry and distressed. You also feel like a failure. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A1884-9-13

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A1890-9-16

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and ashamed. You also feel like a failure and vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are not eating as much as you should. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and experience social isolation. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. Additionally, in your work/study you use resources to gamble. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

A1892-9-18

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and angry. You also feel extremely distressed. You have less spending money and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items and have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You have also lost assets. You are experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol. You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

A1917-9-17

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices and feel less connected. You spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A1928-9-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and angry. You also feel vulnerable. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You spend less time attending social events. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A1940-9-12

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You also feel extremely distressed. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts and do not attend fully to your children's needs. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been late. You are being excluded from study.

A1957-9-12

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel vulnerable and worthless. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time with the people you care about.

A1982-9-16

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and distressed. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are less physically active. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A2003-9-14

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You are experiencing depression. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol.

A2012-9-18

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. You are drinking more alcohol and neglecting your hygiene. You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

A2014-9-16

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, distressed and hopeless. You have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are drinking more alcohol. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking, promising to pay back money without intending to do so and engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression and use resources to gamble.

A2022-9-14

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You also feel extremely distressed. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You have also taken on additional employment and have lost assets. You are less physically active. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts and do not attend fully to your children's needs. You experience social isolation. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have been late and been absent. You are being excluded from study.

A2023-9-7

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and hopeless. Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). Within your religious/cultural community, you feel less connected. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A2053-9-8

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, distressed and hopeless. You have less spending money, have reduced savings and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You spend less time with the people you care about.

A2082-9-19

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed to sell personal items. You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are not eating as much as you should. You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been absent. Additionally, in your work/study you use resources to gamble. You are being excluded from study.

A2092-9-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed and hopeless. You have reduced savings. Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You spend less time with the people you care about. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

A2094-9-12

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You have also lost assets. You are neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast. Your relationship has ended. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble. You are being excluded from study.

A2095-9-5

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You are not eating as much as you should. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

A2097-9-22

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, angry and distressed. You also feel like a failure. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much, less physically active and drinking more alcohol. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have been late and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use resources to gamble.

A2101-9-22

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, vulnerable and worthless. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are experiencing depression. You are less physically active. Your tobacco use is increasing. Within your religious/cultural community, you feel less connected. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A2112-9-21

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs and leave your children unsupervised. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

A2128-9-9

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and distressed. You also feel like a failure. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You feel belittled in your relationship.

A2143-9-17

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel hopeless. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are neglecting your hygiene. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You are engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You also leave your children unsupervised. You spend less time with the people you care about. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been late.

A2159-9-13

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much and less physically active. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. Additionally, in your work/study you have conflict with colleagues.

A2170-9-14

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and distressed. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. You spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict.

A2190-9-7

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are eating too much.

A2197-9-8

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel hopeless. You also feel like a failure. You have reduced savings. You are less physically active. You spend less time with the people you care about. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been late and been absent.

A2226-9-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed and hopeless. You have less spending money. You are less physically active. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You spend less time with the people you care about. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been late and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A2248-9-21

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You also feel vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are less physically active. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and use resources to gamble.

A2249-9-7

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and distressed. You also feel like a failure. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling.

A2251-9-12

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You have less spending money. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts. You are engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. At work/study you have been late and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and use resources to gamble.

A2256-9-9

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You also feel vulnerable and worthless. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression.

A2264-9-11

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You have attempted suicide. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts. Your relationship has ended. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A2275-9-7

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You also feel extremely distressed. You have reduced savings. You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You spend less time with the people you care about. Your relationship has ended.

A2288-9-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict.

A2291-9-22

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and angry. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You are experiencing depression. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are drinking more alcohol and neglecting your hygiene. You are also self-harming. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

A2327-9-11

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel extremely distressed. You have reduced savings. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. Your relationship has ended. Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression.

A2330-9-14

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure and worthless. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict.

A2347-9-19

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are drinking more alcohol and neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

A2357-9-8

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are eating too much. Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been absent.

A2365-9-18

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items and have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You are experiencing depression. You are drinking more alcohol. You are engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). Additionally, in your work/study you use resources to gamble.

A2383-9-12

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure and vulnerable. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict.

A2416-9-22

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, vulnerable and worthless. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A2423-9-8

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You have less spending money. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are eating too much, less physically active and drinking more alcohol. Within your religious/cultural community, you feel less connected. You experience social isolation.

A2443-9-14

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You also feel vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. You are experiencing depression. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You experience social isolation. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A2444-9-22

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are also self-harming. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices and feel less connected. You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict.

A2469-9-15

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, distressed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are eating too much and less physically active. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A2490-9-20

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You have less spending money. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed to sell personal items. You have also taken on additional employment and have lost assets. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are not eating as much as you should. You are neglecting your hygiene. You have attempted suicide. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast. You also have been arrested for unsafe driving. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been absent. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts and are being excluded from study.

A2495-9-8

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression.

A2569-9-15

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and ashamed. You also feel worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much, drinking more alcohol and neglecting your hygiene. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. At work/study you have been absent.

A2615-9-24

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and angry. You also feel like a failure. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items, needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and use resources to gamble. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

A2627-9-17

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are drinking more alcohol. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A2635-9-21

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and hopeless. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You are less physically active, drinking more alcohol and neglecting your hygiene. You are not eating as much as you should. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices, are an outcast, feel less connected and feel that you have shamed your family name. You spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression. You are being excluded from study.

A2637-9-11

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active. You are not eating as much as you should. You have attempted suicide. You experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict.

A2721-9-18

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You also feel extremely distressed. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A2763-9-7

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are not eating as much as you should.

A2788-9-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You have less spending money. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are eating too much and drinking more alcohol.

A2793-9-13

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry, distressed and hopeless. You have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are neglecting your hygiene. You spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. You feel belittled in your relationship. At work/study you have been late. Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression.

A2839-9-9

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed and hopeless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You spend less time with the people you care about. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). You have lost your job.

A2857-9-7

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

A2888-9-6

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and hopeless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are not eating as much as you should. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and experience social isolation.

A2984-9-11

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are experiencing depression. You are drinking more alcohol. Within your religious/cultural community, you feel less connected. You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and feel belittled in your relationship.

A3062-9-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and distressed. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You have also taken on additional employment. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). Within your religious/cultural community, you feel less connected.

A94-10-15

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

A141-10-18

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, angry and hopeless. You are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs and leave your children unsupervised. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have been absent. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A179-10-16

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much and drinking more alcohol. Your tobacco use is increasing. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A263-10-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You also feel extremely distressed. You have less spending money. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are drinking more alcohol. Within your religious/cultural community, you feel that you have shamed your family name. You spend less time with the people you care about. Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression.

A339-10-13

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol. You spend less time attending social events.

A350-10-14

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are experiencing depression. You are not eating as much as you should. You are drinking more alcohol. You spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

A386-10-22

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure and vulnerable. You have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active, neglecting your hygiene and neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You are not eating as much as you should. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A394-10-12

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed to sell personal items. You have also lost assets and have gone bankrupt. You are experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active.

A418-10-19

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed to sell personal items. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events.

A429-10-13

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. Your relationship has ended. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts and have lost your job.

A449-10-19

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

A529-10-16

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and distressed. You also feel like a failure and vulnerable. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are not eating as much as you should. You are drinking more alcohol. You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation.

A546-10-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, angry and distressed. You have less spending money, have reduced savings and are late on bill payments. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time with the people you care about.

A574-10-12

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You also feel vulnerable. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. You are eating too much and less physically active. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have been late.

A672-10-19

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure and vulnerable. You are late on bill payments. You are experiencing depression. You are eating too much and drinking more alcohol. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and use resources to gamble.

A682-10-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You are neglecting your hygiene. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts. You experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts and have lost your job.

A712-10-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel hopeless. You also feel like a failure. You have reduced savings. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items and have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You are experiencing depression. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You have attempted suicide. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A738-10-12

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You also feel extremely distressed. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items and have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts, do not attend fully to your children's needs and leave your children unsupervised. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have been absent. You have lost your job.

A815-10-14

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, angry and hopeless. You also feel vulnerable. You have less spending money. You are experiencing depression. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You also leave your children unsupervised and have been arrested for unsafe driving. You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events.

A899-10-16

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and distressed. You also feel like a failure. You have less spending money, have reduced savings and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and use resources to gamble.

A900-10-22

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You have also needed emergency accommodation and have lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast and feel that you have shamed your family name. You also have been arrested for unsafe driving. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. Your relationship has ended. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and lack progression. You are being excluded from study.

A911-10-11

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and distressed. You have less spending money, have reduced savings and are late on bill payments. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time with the people you care about.

A923-10-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed. You also feel vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol. You are engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

A948-10-14

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed to sell personal items. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are less physically active and neglecting your hygiene. Your tobacco use is increasing. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices. You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation.

A970-10-23

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are experiencing depression. You are not eating as much as you should. You are drinking more alcohol. Within your religious/cultural community, you feel less connected. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and feel belittled in your relationship.

A986-10-9

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel vulnerable. You have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about.

A992-10-8

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are drinking more alcohol.

A1017-10-8

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and distressed. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed to sell personal items. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

A1036-10-16

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, vulnerable and worthless. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are experiencing depression. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are drinking more alcohol and using more health services. You spend less time attending social events.

A1098-10-15

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and distressed. You also feel like a failure. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are not eating as much as you should. You spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A1152-10-21

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You also feel extremely distressed. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items and have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You have also taken on additional employment. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are drinking more alcohol. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. Within your religious/cultural community, you feel less connected. You spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you have conflict with colleagues.

A1157-10-18

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol. You are not eating as much as you should. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You spend less time with the people you care about. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A1218-10-16

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and ashamed. You also feel worthless. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

A1252-10-21

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and distressed. You also feel vulnerable. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active, drinking more alcohol and neglecting your hygiene. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression.

A1255-10-9

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and distressed. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are drinking more alcohol. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict.

A1262-10-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict.

A1289-10-8

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices. You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

A1312-10-7

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are drinking more alcohol. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

A1320-10-18

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. You are drinking more alcohol. You spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. At work/study you have been late. Additionally, in your work/study you use resources to gamble.

A1332-10-9

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol. Your tobacco use is increasing. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about.

A1365-10-15

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure and vulnerable. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You are experiencing depression. You are drinking more alcohol. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A1503-10-21

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active. You are not eating as much as you should.

You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

A1591-10-13

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed and hopeless. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Your tobacco use is increasing. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices and feel less connected. You spend less time attending social events. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and use resources to gamble.

A1592-10-21

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. You also feel like a failure. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). Your tobacco use is increasing. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and feel belittled in your relationship. At work/study you have been late and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A1594-10-14

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You have less spending money and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed to sell personal items. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A1640-10-9

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol. You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A1654-10-21

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You also feel extremely distressed. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are eating too much and drinking more alcohol. Your tobacco use is increasing. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A1672-10-8

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and distressed. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol. You spend less time with the people you care about. Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression.

A1759-10-13

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings. You are less physically active. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. Within your religious/cultural community, you feel less connected. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time with the people you care about. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts and are being excluded from study.

A1762-10-17

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active, neglecting your hygiene and neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You are not eating as much as you should. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and experience social isolation.

A1768-10-8

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are eating too much. You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about.

A1817-10-16

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and vulnerable. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and feel belittled in your relationship.

A1842-10-12

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure. You have reduced savings and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are eating too much and drinking more alcohol. You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. Your relationship has ended.

A1922-10-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure. You have thoughts about escaping. You have less spending money. You have also lost assets. You are neglecting your hygiene. Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

A1929-10-15

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A1933-10-18

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are experiencing depression. You are eating too much and less physically active. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices and feel that you have shamed your family name. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

A1942-10-8

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and distressed. You also feel vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You have less spending money. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression.

A1954-10-8

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. You also feel extremely distressed. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A1960-10-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation.

A1972-10-22

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel extremely distressed and worthless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You have also lost assets. You are experiencing depression. You are neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs and have been arrested for unsafe driving. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been late. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and lack progression. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts and are being excluded from study.

A2011-10-15

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended.

A2050-10-20

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. You are drinking more alcohol. You are engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict.

A2056-10-17

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and ashamed. You have thoughts about escaping. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. You are experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and feel belittled in your relationship. At work/study you have been absent. Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression and have conflict with colleagues.

A2077-10-11

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and distressed. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol. You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events.

A2100-10-19

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol. Your tobacco use is increasing. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A2110-10-11

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You also feel like a failure. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You are experiencing depression. You are eating too much. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You spend less time attending social events.

A2150-10-15

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure and vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. You are less physically active.

A2154-10-17

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and worthless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. You are less physically active. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are also self-harming. You have attempted suicide. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You feel belittled in your relationship.

A2245-10-12

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed and hopeless. You have reduced savings. You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. At work/study you have been absent. You have lost your job.

A2304-10-15

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, distressed and hopeless. You also feel vulnerable. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. You are less physically active. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A2305-10-19

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel vulnerable. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. You are eating too much and drinking more alcohol. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time attending social events. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A2318-10-17

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. You are not eating as much as you should. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict.

A2328-10-21

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much. Within your religious/cultural community, you feel less connected. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You feel belittled in your relationship. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A2352-10-13

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You are experiencing depression. You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A2385-10-16

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and distressed. You also feel like a failure and vulnerable. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A2386-10-14

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel worthless. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You are experiencing depression. You are drinking more alcohol. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A2430-10-22

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. You are less physically active. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You spend less time attending social events. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use resources to gamble. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

A2541-10-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. You are late on bill payments. You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A2657-10-12

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure).

A2792-10-8

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and ashamed. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You are experiencing depression. You spend less time with the people you care about. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A2850-10-12

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. You are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items, needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are less physically active and neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You spend less time attending social events.

A2916-10-19

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and angry. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much, drinking more alcohol and neglecting your hygiene. You spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A3021-10-16

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure and vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You have less spending money, have reduced savings and are late on bill payments. You have also lost assets. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are neglecting your hygiene. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts. You experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have been late.

A95-11-22

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, vulnerable and worthless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol. Within your religious/cultural community, you feel that you have shamed your family name. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities, feel belittled in your relationship and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

A127-11-22

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure and worthless. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. You are eating too much. Within your religious/cultural community, you feel less connected. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A130-11-16

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and worthless. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. You are eating too much.

A135-11-17

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and hopeless. You also feel like a failure and vulnerable. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are experiencing depression. You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol. You are not eating as much as you should. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You experience social isolation. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

A143-11-12

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and angry. You also feel like a failure. You have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A145-11-23

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and distressed. You also feel vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. Additionally, in your work/study you use resources to gamble.

A202-11-21

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and ashamed. You also feel extremely distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are not eating as much as you should. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended.

A212-11-13

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. You are less physically active. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression.

A279-11-18

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, distressed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, vulnerable and worthless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

A380-11-12

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You also feel extremely distressed. You are late on bill payments. You have also lost assets. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices and are an outcast. You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. At work/study you have been absent. You are being excluded from study.

A400-11-11

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A404-11-19

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, vulnerable and worthless. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are eating too much. Within your religious/cultural community, you feel less connected. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and use resources to gamble.

A498-11-20

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are experiencing depression. You are not eating as much as you should. You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). You spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. You feel belittled in your relationship.

A533-11-13

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You are experiencing depression. You are less physically active. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict.

A536-11-20

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and distressed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are less physically active. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have been late and been absent. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A556-11-17

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel worthless. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are less physically active. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A565-11-11

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. You also feel extremely distressed. You have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A596-11-11

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. You are experiencing depression. You are less physically active.

A667-11-19

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. You also feel like a failure and vulnerable. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. You are eating too much and drinking more alcohol. You spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have been late, been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A680-11-13

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have less spending money and are late on bill payments. You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict.

A849-11-11

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You spend less time with the people you care about.

A873-11-13

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure. You have thoughts about escaping. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You have also lost assets. You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts. You spend less time with the people you care about. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been absent. You are being excluded from study.

A897-11-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and angry. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. You are less physically active. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You spend less time with the people you care about.

A919-11-12

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You have also lost assets. You are not eating as much as you should. You have attempted suicide. Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast and feel less connected. You experience social isolation. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have been late. You have lost your job.

A1022-11-14

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You also feel like a failure and vulnerable. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You spend less time with the people you care about.

A1023-11-8

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed and hopeless. You have less spending money. You are neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression. You are being excluded from study.

A1072-11-14

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You are late on bill payments. You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are less physically active. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices and are an outcast. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. At work/study you have been absent.

A1088-11-15

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You also feel like a failure. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. You are eating too much and drinking more alcohol. Your tobacco use is increasing. You experience social isolation.

A1103-11-15

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and distressed. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also gone bankrupt. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are less physically active. You are not eating as much as you should. You spend less time with the people you care about. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A1137-11-20

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. You also feel vulnerable and worthless. You have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You have also taken on additional employment and have lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are not eating as much as you should. You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts, do not attend fully to your children's needs and have been arrested for unsafe driving. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time attending social events. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been absent. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble. You have lost your job.

A1198-11-12

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel hopeless. You also feel like a failure. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You have also lost assets. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You have attempted suicide. Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast. You also have been arrested for unsafe driving. You spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

A1212-11-13

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure and worthless. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A1220-11-18

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and worthless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You have also lost assets. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are eating too much. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You are engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You also leave your children unsupervised and have been arrested for unsafe driving. You spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble. You are being excluded from study.

A1227-11-17

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. Your tobacco use is increasing. You spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

A1239-11-12

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure. You have less spending money. You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and experience social isolation. At work/study you have been absent.

A1277-11-13

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and distressed. You also feel like a failure. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed to sell personal items. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A1287-11-12

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol. Your tobacco use is increasing. You spend less time with the people you care about.

A1304-11-20

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much. You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. Within your religious/cultural community, you feel that you have shamed your family name. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A1345-11-11

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel hopeless. You also feel worthless. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are neglecting your hygiene. Within your religious/cultural community, you feel less connected. You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). You spend less time with the people you care about. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. Additionally, in your work/study you use resources to gamble. You are being excluded from study.

A1359-11-11

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You have reduced savings. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble. You are being excluded from study.

A1372-11-16

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure).

A1393-11-12

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed. You have less spending money. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are experiencing depression. You are not eating as much as you should. You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events.

A1453-11-14

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You also feel extremely distressed. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict.

A1456-11-16

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). Your tobacco use is increasing. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts. You are engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

A1494-11-24

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed and worthless. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. Your relationship has ended.

A1522-11-11

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and distressed. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

A1605-11-22

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are drinking more alcohol. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A1621-11-16

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You have also taken on additional employment. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. You are eating too much. You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast and feel less connected. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. At work/study you have been late. Additionally, in your work/study you use resources to gamble. You are being excluded from study.

A1651-11-16

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, angry and hopeless. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You are less physically active. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you have conflict with colleagues.

A1658-11-19

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are experiencing depression. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are drinking more alcohol. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events.

A1751-11-18

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, distressed and hopeless. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are drinking more alcohol and neglecting your hygiene. You spend less time with the people you care about. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A1777-11-17

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active. You spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. At work/study you have been late and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A1794-11-14

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and ashamed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are experiencing depression. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and feel belittled in your relationship.

A1838-11-19

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much and less physically active. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You feel belittled in your relationship.

A1863-11-15

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and distressed. You also feel like a failure. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are drinking more alcohol. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices. At work/study you have been absent.

A1867-11-11

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure. You have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are drinking more alcohol. You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A1886-11-13

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much. You experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. At work/study you have been late and been absent.

A1913-11-16

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have less spending money and are late on bill payments. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You spend less time attending social events.

A1944-11-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have less spending money and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are not eating as much as you should. You are drinking more alcohol. You are engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You feel belittled in your relationship.

A1989-11-13

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You have also lost assets. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are eating too much. You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts. You spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts and are being excluded from study.

A2019-11-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and distressed. You also feel like a failure. You have reduced savings, are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You spend less time with the people you care about.

A2036-11-13

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are not eating as much as you should. You are drinking more alcohol. Within your religious/cultural community, you feel less connected.

A2068-11-20

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and worthless. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are less physically active. Your tobacco use is increasing. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation.

A2152-11-24

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and distressed. You also feel like a failure and vulnerable. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are less physically active. You are not eating as much as you should. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities, feel belittled in your relationship and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

A2156-11-19

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed to sell personal items. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. You are less physically active. You spend less time with the people you care about. At work/study you have been absent.

A2163-11-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. You have reduced savings and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. At work/study you have been late and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A2171-11-15

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and hopeless. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A2219-11-15

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have reduced savings, are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You spend less time with the people you care about. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A2232-11-12

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and ashamed. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict.

A2243-11-19

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, angry and hopeless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. You are less physically active. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. At work/study you have been late. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and lack progression.

A2254-11-9

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You have reduced savings and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You have also gone bankrupt. You are less physically active. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A2265-11-18

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are neglecting your hygiene and using more health services. You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast and feel less connected. You also have been arrested for unsafe driving. You experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble. You are being excluded from study.

A2269-11-20

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and worthless. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. You are less physically active. You are not eating as much as you should. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. At work/study you have been late.

A2297-11-15

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed to sell personal items. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. You are not eating as much as you should. You spend less time attending social events. You feel belittled in your relationship.

A2419-11-16

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. You are experiencing depression. You are drinking more alcohol. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and feel belittled in your relationship.

A2421-11-24

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, distressed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much, less physically active and drinking more alcohol. Your tobacco use is increasing. You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A2685-11-13

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You are late on bill payments. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much. You experience social isolation. At work/study you have been late. Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression and have conflict with colleagues.

A2723-11-17

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much and drinking more alcohol. Your tobacco use is increasing. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

A2767-11-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. You have reduced savings. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events.

A2786-11-14

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time attending social events. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been late and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A3026-11-11

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You spend less time attending social events.

A3030-11-13

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have reduced savings. You have also gone bankrupt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression.

A73-12-14

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You have also taken on additional employment and have lost assets. You are neglecting your hygiene and neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices. You are engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You spend less time attending social events. Your relationship has ended. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts and are being excluded from study.

A86-12-23

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You have also lost assets and have gone bankrupt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are drinking more alcohol. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A98-12-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and distressed. You also feel like a failure and worthless. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are experiencing depression.

A109-12-17

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are drinking more alcohol. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble, lack progression and use resources to gamble.

A121-12-24

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, vulnerable and worthless. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items, needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are less physically active. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events.

A142-12-18

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You have also taken on additional employment and have lost assets. You are not eating as much as you should. You are neglecting your hygiene. You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts and have been arrested for unsafe driving. You spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. At work/study you have been absent. Additionally, in your work/study you use resources to gamble. You are being excluded from study.

A144-12-13

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You are experiencing depression. You feel belittled in your relationship. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A187-12-20

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items and have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are not eating as much as you should. You spend less time attending social events.

A193-12-19

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed to sell personal items. You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast. You also have been arrested for unsafe driving. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time attending social events. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been absent. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble. You are being excluded from study.

A273-12-12

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, vulnerable and worthless. You have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You spend less time with the people you care about.

A284-12-12

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You have also lost assets and have lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast. You spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. At work/study you have been absent. You are being excluded from study.

A307-12-12

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You have thoughts about escaping. You have less spending money. You have also gone bankrupt. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been absent. You are being excluded from study.

A331-12-13

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are drinking more alcohol. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A332-12-24

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You have also taken on additional employment and have lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts and have been arrested for unsafe driving. Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast and feel less connected. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time attending social events. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been absent. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble. You are being excluded from study.

A352-12-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You have reduced savings. You are not eating as much as you should. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). You experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A388-12-9

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A398-12-16

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are less physically active. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been late and been absent. You are being excluded from study.

A403-12-12

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. You have less spending money. You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You have attempted suicide. You are engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You also leave your children unsupervised. You spend less time with the people you care about. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been late. You have lost your job.

A416-12-15

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are experiencing depression. You are drinking more alcohol. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices, are an outcast, feel less connected and feel that you have shamed your family name. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict.

A482-12-9

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have been late.

A538-12-18

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and vulnerable. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. You are not eating as much as you should. You are drinking more alcohol. You spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A557-12-11

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You are neglecting your hygiene. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. At work/study you have been absent. You are being excluded from study.

A563-12-23

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You also feel vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You have also lost assets. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are neglecting your hygiene. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs and have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been late. Additionally, in your work/study you use resources to gamble. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts and have lost your job.

A572-12-13

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are eating too much. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues).

A581-12-24

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much and less physically active. Your tobacco use is increasing. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A602-12-9

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You also feel extremely distressed. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been absent.

A603-12-15

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items and have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You are eating too much. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts and have been arrested for unsafe driving. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and feel belittled in your relationship. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and use resources to gamble.

A626-12-18

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and worthless. You are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You have also lost assets. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are eating too much and neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast. You also have been arrested for unsafe driving. You spend less time attending social events. Your relationship has ended. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts and have lost your job.

A679-12-12

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You also feel extremely distressed. You have less spending money. You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been absent. You are being excluded from study.

A723-12-20

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. At work/study you have been late.

A735-12-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You have also lost assets. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are less physically active and neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts and do not attend fully to your children's needs. You spend less time with the people you care about. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been late.

A751-12-8

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings. You are neglecting your hygiene. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been absent.

A772-12-13

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and hopeless. You have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You have also lost assets. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). Within your religious/cultural community, you feel that you have shamed your family name. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been late. You have lost your job.

A798-12-11

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, distressed and hopeless. You also feel vulnerable. You have less spending money and are late on bill payments. You are experiencing depression. You are drinking more alcohol. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict.

A836-12-17

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You have reduced savings, are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also lost assets. You are drinking more alcohol. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. At work/study you have been late. Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression.

A838-12-12

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel extremely distressed and worthless. You have less spending money. You have also lost assets. You are neglecting your hygiene. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast. You feel belittled in your relationship and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been late. You are being excluded from study.

A844-12-12

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel vulnerable. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are experiencing depression. Your tobacco use is increasing. Within your religious/cultural community, you feel less connected. You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). You spend less time attending social events.

A878-12-13

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and distressed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are less physically active. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. At work/study you have been absent. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A887-12-19

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have less spending money. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You have also lost assets and have needed emergency accommodation. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices and are an outcast. You also have been arrested for unsafe driving. You spend less time attending social events. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been absent. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts and are being excluded from study.

A889-12-11

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and worthless. You are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. You spend less time with the people you care about.

A1051-12-17

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and angry. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have less spending money and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended.

A1089-12-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You also feel extremely distressed. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

A1241-12-23

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure. You have thoughts about escaping. You have less spending money. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices. You spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been late. Additionally, in your work/study you use resources to gamble. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts, are being excluded from study and have lost your job.

A1253-12-11

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A1256-12-20

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and hopeless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much, less physically active and drinking more alcohol. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You also do not attend fully to your children's needs, have experiences with violence (include family/domestic) and leave your children unsupervised. You spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A1291-12-12

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You have also lost assets. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices and are an outcast. You spend less time with the people you care about. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been absent. You are being excluded from study.

A1300-12-21

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have less spending money. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have been late and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression.

A1301-12-12

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure. You have thoughts about escaping. You have less spending money. You have also lost assets. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You have attempted suicide. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). You spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble. You are being excluded from study.

A1315-12-25

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed to sell personal items. You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A1336-12-12

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and angry. You also feel extremely distressed. You have less spending money. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are drinking more alcohol. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You spend less time with the people you care about. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A1344-12-11

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, distressed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, vulnerable and worthless. You have less spending money, have reduced savings and are late on bill payments. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol.

A1418-12-17

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much and less physically active. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A1439-12-18

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You have also taken on additional employment and have lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time attending social events. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been late. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts and are being excluded from study.

A1463-12-19

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You also feel like a failure. You have thoughts about escaping. You are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are eating too much. You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts, have experiences with violence (include family/domestic) and have been arrested for unsafe driving. You spend less time with the people you care about. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been late. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble. You are being excluded from study.

A1471-12-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure and worthless. You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

A1498-12-20

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are drinking more alcohol. You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

A1579-12-13

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are experiencing depression. You experience social isolation. You feel belittled in your relationship. At work/study you have been late. Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression.

A1649-12-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are less physically active. You experience social isolation. At work/study you have been late and been absent.

A1657-12-19

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel extremely distressed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items and have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions) and using more health services. You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been late and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A1677-12-14

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure).

A1712-12-18

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and hopeless. You also feel vulnerable. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. You are eating too much and less physically active. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices and feel less connected. You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation.

A1763-12-13

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You also feel extremely distressed. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are experiencing depression. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events.

A1788-12-16

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. You have reduced savings and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You have also lost assets. You are neglecting your hygiene. You are also self-harming. You have attempted suicide. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices. You spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts and have lost your job.

A1810-12-12

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You also feel extremely distressed. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You have also gone bankrupt. You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices. You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). You spend less time with the people you care about. Your relationship has ended. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble. You are being excluded from study.

A1814-12-11

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure. You have thoughts about escaping. You have less spending money. You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are not eating as much as you should. You have attempted suicide. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices and are an outcast. Your relationship has ended. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A1819-12-14

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure. You have reduced savings. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. At work/study you have been late. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A1824-12-17

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have less spending money. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are experiencing depression. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so and engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You experience social isolation. You feel belittled in your relationship.

A1862-12-12

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed to sell personal items. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You experience social isolation.

A1879-12-22

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and distressed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have been late and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression.

A1927-12-27

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You have also lost assets and have lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are drinking more alcohol. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts and do not attend fully to your children's needs. Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been late and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble. You are being excluded from study.

A1967-12-11

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, angry and distressed. You also feel like a failure. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. You are not eating as much as you should. You spend less time with the people you care about.

A1969-12-17

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You also feel worthless. You have less spending money and are late on bill payments. You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are neglecting your hygiene. You have attempted suicide. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been absent. Additionally, in your work/study you use resources to gamble. You have lost your job.

A1974-12-12

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You have less spending money, have reduced savings and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are experiencing depression. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A2029-12-16

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

A2063-12-16

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and distressed. You also feel like a failure and worthless. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are less physically active. You are not eating as much as you should. You spend less time attending social events. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A2108-12-18

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. You are drinking more alcohol. You experience social isolation.

A2144-12-21

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much, less physically active and neglecting your hygiene. Your tobacco use is increasing. You spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. At work/study you have been absent. Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression.

A2177-12-15

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and distressed. You also feel like a failure and vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are eating too much and drinking more alcohol. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

A2239-12-23

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel hopeless. You also feel like a failure. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items and have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active, drinking more alcohol and neglecting your hygiene. Your tobacco use is increasing. You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have been late and been absent.

A2241-12-20

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You have also taken on additional employment. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A2247-12-16

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and angry. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items, needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also lost assets. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

A2295-12-16

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are experiencing depression. You are less physically active. Your tobacco use is increasing. You spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

A2298-12-22

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure and vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. You are eating too much. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. You feel belittled in your relationship and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

A2367-12-16

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. You also feel extremely distressed. You have less spending money and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. You are drinking more alcohol. You are engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A2376-12-11

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure. You have thoughts about escaping. Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You spend less time attending social events. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been absent.

A2377-12-11

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You have thoughts about escaping. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You have also lost assets. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are neglecting your hygiene. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

A2379-12-11

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. You are drinking more alcohol.

A2407-12-15

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You also feel vulnerable. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are less physically active. You spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression.

A2466-12-21

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, distressed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure and vulnerable. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You have also taken on additional employment. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You also have been arrested for unsafe driving. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have been late and been absent.

A2507-12-17

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and angry. You also feel like a failure.

You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are eating too much and less physically active. You spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

A2513-12-11

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and distressed. You have less spending money. You have also taken on additional employment. You are less physically active. You are not eating as much as you should. You are engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You neglect your relationship responsibilities. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A2568-12-23

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are experiencing depression. You are eating too much, less physically active and drinking more alcohol. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

A2986-12-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Your tobacco use is increasing. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict.

A3016-12-22

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active, drinking more alcohol and neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices and feel less connected. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have been late. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A42-13-20

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You have also taken on additional employment. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. You spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. At work/study you have been late and been absent.

A68-13-26

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and ashamed. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You have also lost assets and have lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. You are eating too much. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts, do not attend fully to your children's needs and leave your children unsupervised. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been late and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

A93-13-15

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel hopeless. You also feel like a failure. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You have also lost assets. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast. You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been absent. Additionally, in your work/study you use resources to gamble. You are being excluded from study.

A176-13-15

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. Your relationship has ended.

A309-13-12

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are experiencing depression. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts. You spend less time attending social events. Your relationship has ended. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble. You are being excluded from study.

A327-13-17

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active. You are not eating as much as you should. You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A329-13-12

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel hopeless. You also feel vulnerable. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You have also lost assets. You are less physically active. You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. Within your religious/cultural community, you feel less connected. You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). Your relationship has ended. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble. You are being excluded from study.

A359-13-20

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, distressed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are not eating as much as you should. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices, feel less connected and feel that you have shamed your family name. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. You feel belittled in your relationship. At work/study you have been absent. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A361-13-15

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You are late on bill payments. You have also needed emergency accommodation. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time attending social events. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been late. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts and are being excluded from study.

A409-13-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You have also lost assets. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices. You spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts and are being excluded from study.

A496-13-23

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed to sell personal items. You have also taken on additional employment. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol. You are engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict.

A555-13-14

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You also feel extremely distressed. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You have also taken on additional employment and have lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions).

You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been absent.

A606-13-14

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and distressed. You also feel vulnerable. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are eating too much. You are engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time attending social events.

A636-13-28

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure and worthless. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much, less physically active, drinking more alcohol and neglecting your hygiene. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A686-13-15

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You have also taken on additional employment and have lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts and have been arrested for unsafe driving. Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast. You spend less time attending social events. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been absent. You are being excluded from study.

A702-13-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure. You have thoughts about escaping. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A721-13-24

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure. You have thoughts about escaping. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items and have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are eating too much, less physically active, drinking more alcohol and neglecting your hygiene. You are also self-harming. You have attempted suicide. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast and feel that you have shamed your family name. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time with the people you care about. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been absent. Additionally, in your work/study you use resources to gamble and have conflict with colleagues. You are being excluded from study.

A767-13-23

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol. Your tobacco use is increasing. You spend less time attending social events. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have been absent.

A781-13-18

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have reduced savings and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items and have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You have also lost assets. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are neglecting your hygiene. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts and do not attend fully to your children's needs. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been late.

A787-13-12

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You have also taken on additional employment and have lost assets. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You have attempted suicide. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been absent. You are being excluded from study.

A917-13-13

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are experiencing depression. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol.

A973-13-12

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and angry. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You have also taken on additional employment. You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You spend less time attending social events. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A982-13-14

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are neglecting your hygiene. You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been absent. You are being excluded from study.

A1021-13-11

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and ashamed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol. You also have been arrested for unsafe driving. You spend less time attending social events. Additionally, in your work/study you use resources to gamble.

A1129-13-15

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You have also taken on additional employment and have lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been absent. You are being excluded from study.

A1130-13-12

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and worthless. You have less spending money. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are not eating as much as you should. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been late.

A1314-13-18

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also lost assets and have lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are eating too much. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts and have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation.

A1327-13-20

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You have also taken on additional employment. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are less physically active and neglecting your hygiene. You are not eating as much as you should. You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts. Within your religious/cultural community, you feel less connected. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression and have conflict with colleagues.

A1329-13-12

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You also feel extremely distressed. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You have also lost assets. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic) and have been arrested for unsafe driving. You experience social isolation. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble. You are being excluded from study.

A1388-13-21

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, distressed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed to sell personal items. You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are not eating as much as you should. You are neglecting your hygiene. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been late. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

A1423-13-12

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are experiencing depression. You are drinking more alcohol and using more health services. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

A1435-13-13

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel hopeless. You also feel like a failure. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts. You spend less time attending social events. Your relationship has ended. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts and are being excluded from study.

A1479-13-16

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You have also lost assets. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. Your relationship has ended. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts and have lost your job.

A1485-13-21

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and worthless. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. You have also taken on additional employment. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. At work/study you have been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A1496-13-15

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You have also lost assets. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are eating too much. You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast. You spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. Your relationship has ended. Additionally, in your work/study you have conflict with colleagues. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts and are being excluded from study.

A1521-13-25

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and feel belittled in your relationship.

A1556-13-18

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended.

A1593-13-17

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much. Your tobacco use is increasing. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict.

A1612-13-19

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, distressed and hopeless. You also feel vulnerable and worthless. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression.

A1634-13-20

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel hopeless. You have reduced savings. Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active, drinking more alcohol and neglecting your hygiene. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices and feel less connected. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been late, been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble, lack progression and use resources to gamble. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

A1719-13-15

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed to sell personal items. You have also gone bankrupt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. Additionally, in your work/study you use resources to gamble.

A1723-13-27

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed to sell personal items. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities, feel belittled in your relationship and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

A1734-13-12

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You have also gone bankrupt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast. You spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. At work/study you have been absent. You are being excluded from study.

A1742-13-16

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are experiencing depression. You are less physically active. Your tobacco use is increasing. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A1748-13-14

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are less physically active. You are not eating as much as you should. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices and feel less connected. You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. At work/study you have been late.

A1796-13-18

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, vulnerable and worthless. You have reduced savings. Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. At work/study you have been late and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble, lack progression and use resources to gamble. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

A1869-13-11

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed. You have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are drinking more alcohol. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time attending social events. At work/study you have been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A2021-13-13

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You have also needed emergency accommodation and have lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are neglecting your hygiene. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic) and have been arrested for unsafe driving. You spend less time with the people you care about. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been absent.

A2067-13-14

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol. You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and lack progression.

A2098-13-16

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed. You have less spending money, have reduced savings and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items and have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are experiencing depression. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol and neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). You experience social isolation. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been late and been absent.

A2200-13-18

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. You have also gone bankrupt. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices and feel less connected. You spend less time attending social events.

A2211-13-24

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are not eating as much as you should. You are neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A2218-13-16

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict.

A2240-13-13

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and distressed. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are eating too much and less physically active. You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A2259-13-24

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active. Your tobacco use is increasing. You spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. You feel belittled in your relationship.

A2279-13-17

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You have also lost assets and have needed emergency accommodation. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are eating too much. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time attending social events. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble. You are being excluded from study.

A2319-13-13

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You also feel extremely distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are experiencing depression. You are neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions) and using more health services. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices and feel less connected. You experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

A2345-13-20

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure and worthless. You have reduced savings. You have also lost assets. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are not eating as much as you should. You are using more health services. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices and feel less connected. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and lack progression.

A2380-13-17

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and ashamed. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are less physically active, drinking more alcohol and neglecting your hygiene. You are not eating as much as you should. You spend less time attending social events. At work/study you have been late. Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

A2404-13-21

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and distressed. You also feel vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items, needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also taken on additional employment. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. You are not eating as much as you should. You are neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

A2561-13-12

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You have also lost assets and have lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast. Your relationship has ended. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

A2630-13-12

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed and hopeless. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You have also gone bankrupt. You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You also leave your children unsupervised. You spend less time with the people you care about. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). You have lost your job.

A2962-13-26

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You also feel extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have less spending money and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity) and have gone bankrupt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts, do not attend fully to your children's needs and have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been late. Additionally, in your work/study you use resources to gamble. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts and are being excluded from study.

A17-14-23

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You have also lost utilities (e.g.

electricity) and have gone bankrupt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are drinking more alcohol and neglecting your hygiene. You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking, promising to pay back money without intending to do so and engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast. You also have been arrested for unsafe driving. You spend less time attending social events. Your relationship has ended. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

A222-14-18

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You have also lost assets. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast. You also have been arrested for unsafe driving. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been absent. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble. You are being excluded from study.

A268-14-28

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed and worthless. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are less physically active, drinking more alcohol and neglecting your hygiene. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended.

A278-14-22

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are less physically active and using more health services. You are not eating as much as you should. You are also self-harming. You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A299-14-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure and vulnerable. You have less spending money. You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are not eating as much as you should. You experience social isolation.

A303-14-21

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You have less spending money. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed to sell personal items. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much and less physically active. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict.

A330-14-24

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure and vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking, promising to pay back money without intending to do so and engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression.

A349-14-12

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You have less spending money. You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You have attempted suicide. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You also have experiences with violence (include family/ domestic). You spend less time attending social events. Your relationship has ended. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts and are being excluded from study.

A411-14-13

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and hopeless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You have also needed emergency accommodation. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast. You also have been arrested for unsafe driving. Your relationship has ended. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble. You are being excluded from study.

A438-14-17

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are less physically active and neglecting your hygiene. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time with the people you care about. At work/study you have been absent.

A452-14-23

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel hopeless. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You have reduced savings. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also needed emergency accommodation and have lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are eating too much. Your tobacco use is increasing. You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices. You are engaging in petty theft/ dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. Your relationship has ended. At work/ study you have been late. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

A467-14-11

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and angry. You also feel extremely distressed. You have reduced savings and are late on bill payments. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. Your tobacco use is increasing. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A478-14-14

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You have also lost assets. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are neglecting your hygiene. You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts, do not attend fully to your children's needs and leave your children unsupervised. You spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts and are being excluded from study.

A522-14-13

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are not eating as much as you should. You are using more health services. Within your religious/cultural community, you feel less connected. You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have been late.

A537-14-27

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, angry, distressed and hopeless. You have less spending money, have reduced savings and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You have also taken on additional employment. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are less physically active. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. Within your religious/cultural community, you feel less connected. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have been late, been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and use resources to gamble.

A558-14-16

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and hopeless. You also feel vulnerable. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A703-14-27

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. You are neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and feel belittled in your relationship.

A742-14-32

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You have also lost assets and have lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts. Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast and feel less connected. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been late. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and use resources to gamble. You are being excluded from study and have lost your job.

A811-14-25

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and worthless. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You feel belittled in your relationship. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

A818-14-19

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel vulnerable. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. You have also gone bankrupt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. At work/study you have been late, been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A855-14-31

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You also feel extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also taken on additional employment. You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol. Your tobacco use is increasing. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been late and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble, lack progression and use resources to gamble. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts and have lost your job.

A877-14-12

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You also feel extremely distressed. Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are not eating as much as you should. You have attempted suicide. You are engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You also have been arrested for unsafe driving. You spend less time with the people you care about. Your relationship has ended. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble. You are being excluded from study.

A898-14-28

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You have also lost assets. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts and have been arrested for unsafe driving. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices and feel less connected. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been late. Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts and are being excluded from study.

A909-14-17

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, angry, distressed and hopeless. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. You are less physically active and neglecting your hygiene. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation.

A965-14-11

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure. You have thoughts about escaping. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You have also gone bankrupt. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. Within your religious/cultural community, you feel less connected. You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). You spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts and are being excluded from study.

A1063-14-9

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You have reduced savings. You have also lost assets. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about.

A1070-14-20

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed and hopeless. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are drinking more alcohol and neglecting your hygiene. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs and leave your children unsupervised. You experience social isolation. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been late and been absent. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A1167-14-24

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and worthless. You have reduced savings, are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. You are eating too much, less physically active and neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices. You also leave your children unsupervised. You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. You feel belittled in your relationship. At work/study you have been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression.

A1174-14-19

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. You also feel vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You have also taken on additional employment and have lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are not eating as much as you should. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts and have been arrested for unsafe driving. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been late. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble. You have lost your job.

A1183-14-12

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure).

A1187-14-29

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have less spending money, have reduced savings and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items and have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You have also taken on additional employment, lost assets and have lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and promising to pay back money without intending to do so. Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been late and been absent. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts and are being excluded from study.

A1219-14-19

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure and vulnerable. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much, neglecting your hygiene and using more health services. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities, feel belittled in your relationship and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

A1229-14-13

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are experiencing depression. You are not eating as much as you should. You are drinking more alcohol.

A1254-14-19

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel hopeless. You also feel like a failure. You have reduced savings. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much and drinking more alcohol. Your tobacco use is increasing. Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast and feel less connected. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs and leave your children unsupervised. You spend less time with the people you care about. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been late. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and lack progression.

A1270-14-11

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been absent.

A1302-14-17

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have less spending money. You have also lost assets and have needed emergency accommodation. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are eating too much. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A1350-14-17

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are drinking more alcohol. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs and leave your children unsupervised. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

A1367-14-12

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have less spending money.

You have also lost assets. You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You spend less time attending social events. Your relationship has ended. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts and are being excluded from study.

A1370-14-32

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure and worthless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items and have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much and neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs and have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and feel belittled in your relationship. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and lack progression.

A1380-14-22

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much. Your tobacco use is increasing. You spend less time with the people you care about. At work/study you have been late. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A1431-14-30

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs and leave your children unsupervised. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression.

A1588-14-27

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You have also taken on additional employment and have lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are not eating as much as you should. You are neglecting your hygiene. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts and have been arrested for unsafe driving. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices and are an outcast. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been late. Additionally, in your work/study you use resources to gamble. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts and are being excluded from study.

A1603-14-27

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. You are neglecting your hygiene and neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

A1666-14-20

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings. Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active. You are not eating as much as you should. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You feel belittled in your relationship.

A1714-14-11

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You have less spending money. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts and are being excluded from study.

A1785-14-14

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed. You have less spending money, have reduced savings and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are not eating as much as you should. You experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

A1790-14-11

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You also feel extremely distressed. You have less spending money. Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been late.

A1953-14-10

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and ashamed. You also feel extremely distressed. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and feel belittled in your relationship.

A1986-14-19

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You also feel extremely distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A1994-14-20

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. You also feel like a failure, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. Your tobacco use is increasing. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and feel belittled in your relationship. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A1998-14-13

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You also feel like a failure. You have reduced savings. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. You are not eating as much as you should. You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). You experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A2008-14-23

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. You are less physically active and neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You are not eating as much as you should. Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

A2017-14-16

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are eating too much, less physically active and using more health services. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You feel belittled in your relationship.

A2096-14-17

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A2182-14-22

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much and less physically active. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A2221-14-17

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

A2230-14-23

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. You are eating too much and drinking more alcohol. Your tobacco use is increasing. Within your religious/cultural community, you feel less connected. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and feel belittled in your relationship. Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression.

A2273-14-22

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You also feel extremely distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you have conflict with colleagues.

A2283-14-25

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are less physically active. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been late and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A2414-14-15

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, distressed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also taken on additional employment. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. Additionally, in your work/study you use resources to gamble.

A2458-14-26

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and feel belittled in your relationship.

A2478-14-25

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active, drinking more alcohol and neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). Your tobacco use is increasing. You spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict.

A2491-14-11

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and ashamed. You also feel extremely distressed. You have less spending money. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are eating too much. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You experience social isolation. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression.

A2580-14-11

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You also feel extremely distressed. You have also taken on additional employment and have lost assets. You are neglecting your hygiene. You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts. You spend less time attending social events. Your relationship has ended. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

A2640-14-23

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. You are not eating as much as you should. You are neglecting your hygiene and using more health services. You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast and feel less connected. You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A2753-14-13

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You have thoughts about escaping. You are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. You feel belittled in your relationship. At work/study you have been late.

A2884-14-15

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A2952-14-12

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel hopeless. You also feel vulnerable. You have less spending money. Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices and are an outcast. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. Your relationship has ended. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble. You have lost your job.

A2981-14-15

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and worthless. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You have also lost assets and have lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are neglecting your hygiene. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time with the people you care about. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been late.

A24-15-27

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also taken on additional employment. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much. You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A25-15-19

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You have also lost assets and have gone bankrupt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts. You experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts and are being excluded from study.

A120-15-31

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed to sell personal items. You have also lost assets. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast and feel that you have shamed your family name. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you have conflict with colleagues. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts and have lost your job.

A209-15-26

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You also feel extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items and have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are drinking more alcohol. You are also self-harming. You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts, do not attend fully to your children's needs and have been arrested for unsafe driving. Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast and feel less connected. You spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. At work/study you have been late and been absent. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble. You are being excluded from study.

A231-15-23

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure and worthless. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are drinking more alcohol and neglecting your hygiene. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A289-15-25

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel hopeless. You also feel like a failure and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also lost assets. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You are engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been late. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

A290-15-26

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are drinking more alcohol. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been late.

A531-15-23

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. Your tobacco use is increasing. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A597-15-17

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have reduced savings and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol. You are also self-harming.

A599-15-23

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have reduced savings and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You have also lost assets and have lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. You have attempted suicide. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so and engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts and do not attend fully to your children's needs. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time with the people you care about. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been late. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts and have lost your job.

A618-15-16

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure. You have less spending money. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and use resources to gamble.

A649-15-29

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. You are drinking more alcohol. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities, feel belittled in your relationship and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

A737-15-25

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and distressed. You also feel like a failure. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You have also lost assets and have lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are also self-harming. You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs, leave your children unsupervised and have been arrested for unsafe driving. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time attending social events. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been absent. Additionally, in your work/study you have conflict with colleagues. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts and have lost your job.

A883-15-20

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You also feel vulnerable. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also taken on additional employment and have gone bankrupt. You are experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much, less physically active and drinking more alcohol. You spend less time with the people you care about. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and use resources to gamble.

A1201-15-14

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed to sell personal items. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A1202-15-22

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You also feel like a failure and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items, needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are drinking more alcohol. You spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and feel belittled in your relationship. At work/study you have been late.

A1223-15-18

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You also feel extremely distressed and worthless. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items and have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You have attempted suicide. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts and have been arrested for unsafe driving. Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time with the people you care about. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been late. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A1236-15-29

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also taken on additional employment. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. You are not eating as much as you should. You are drinking more alcohol. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. Your relationship has ended. Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression and use resources to gamble. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

A1240-15-14

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure. You have thoughts about escaping. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You have also taken on additional employment. You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much. You have attempted suicide. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts and leave your children unsupervised. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. At work/study you have been late. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A1268-15-18

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are neglecting your hygiene. You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking, promising to pay back money without intending to do so and engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts and have been arrested for unsafe driving. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been absent. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts and have lost your job.

A1274-15-22

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure.

You have reduced savings and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are eating too much and drinking more alcohol. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so and engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You also do not attend fully to your children's needs, leave your children unsupervised and have been arrested for unsafe driving. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. At work/study you have been late and been absent. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and lack progression.

A1281-15-31

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity) and have gone bankrupt. You are experiencing depression. You are eating too much, neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions) and using more health services. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts, do not attend fully to your children's needs and have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices and feel less connected. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. At work/study you have been late. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and use resources to gamble. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

A1358-15-18

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You have reduced savings. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are not eating as much as you should. You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices and are an outcast. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been late. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble. You are being excluded from study.

A1433-15-22

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and worthless. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much. Your tobacco use is increasing. You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended.

A1454-15-18

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. You are eating too much and less physically active. You spend less time with the people you care about.

A1488-15-14

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are less physically active. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been absent.

A1505-15-17

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, distressed and hopeless. You also feel worthless. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices and feel less connected. You spend less time with the people you care about.

A1511-15-29

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed to sell personal items. You have also lost assets. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much and drinking more alcohol. You are engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and feel belittled in your relationship. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A1514-15-16

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and angry. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also gone bankrupt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. You feel belittled in your relationship.

A1525-15-28

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. You are eating too much, less physically active and drinking more alcohol. Within your religious/cultural community, you feel that you have shamed your family name. You spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You feel belittled in your relationship and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A1569-15-16

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression.

A1667-15-25

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. At work/study you have been late and been absent. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A1720-15-30

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and distressed. You also feel like a failure, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also needed emergency accommodation. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are not eating as much as you should. You are neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and feel belittled in your relationship.

A1839-15-15

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and distressed. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. You are less physically active. You spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A1854-15-14

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and angry. You also feel extremely distressed. You have less spending money, have reduced savings and are late on bill payments. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. Your relationship has ended.

A1907-15-30

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also taken on additional employment. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A1925-15-20

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also taken on additional employment. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are drinking more alcohol. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A1948-15-32

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active, neglecting your hygiene and neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You are not eating as much as you should. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and feel belittled in your relationship. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and lack progression.

A1968-15-22

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are experiencing depression. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are drinking more alcohol and neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been late and been absent.

A1985-15-26

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are neglecting your hygiene. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

A2215-15-21

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A2253-15-22

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and worthless. You have reduced savings and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also lost assets. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are eating too much, drinking more alcohol and neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices and feel that you have shamed your family name. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use resources to gamble.

A2270-15-21

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. You are drinking more alcohol. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict.

A2321-15-14

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry, distressed and hopeless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are neglecting your hygiene. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. At work/study you have been absent. Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression.

A2324-15-25

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also taken on additional employment. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. At work/study you have been late and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and use resources to gamble.

A2335-15-23

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You also feel worthless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol. Your tobacco use is increasing. You spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A2372-15-24

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You also feel like a failure. You have thoughts about escaping. You have less spending money. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You have also taken on additional employment, lost assets and have lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much and neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast and feel less connected. You also have experiences with violence (include family/ domestic) and leave your children unsupervised. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been late. Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression. You are being excluded from study.

A2438-15-30

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, angry, distressed and hopeless. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and use resources to gamble. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

A2455-15-22

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure. You have thoughts about escaping. You are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You have also lost assets. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are not eating as much as you should. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been late and been absent. Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression and have conflict with colleagues. You are being excluded from study.

A2461-15-23

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure and worthless. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are drinking more alcohol and neglecting your hygiene. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and feel belittled in your relationship. At work/study you have been absent. Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts and have lost your job.

A2547-15-22

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have less spending money and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You have also lost assets and have needed emergency accommodation. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are neglecting your hygiene. You have attempted suicide. Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast and feel that you have shamed your family name. You also have been arrested for unsafe driving. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been absent. Additionally, in your work/study you use resources to gamble. You are being excluded from study.

A2556-15-26

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You also feel extremely distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items, needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A2787-15-25

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food).

You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. You are not eating as much as you should. You are drinking more alcohol. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs and leave your children unsupervised. You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A2805-15-22

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You also feel like a failure and vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You have also lost assets. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are not eating as much as you should. You are neglecting your hygiene. You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. Within your religious/cultural community, you feel less connected. You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic) and have been arrested for unsafe driving. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble. You are being excluded from study.

A2810-15-28

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active. You spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been late and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression.

A2812-15-33

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much, less physically active and drinking more alcohol. Your tobacco use is increasing. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities, feel belittled in your relationship and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and use resources to gamble.

A2860-15-22

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You have also lost assets. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. You are not eating as much as you should. You are neglecting your hygiene. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). Within your religious/cultural community, you feel less connected. You experience social isolation. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and feel belittled in your relationship. At work/study you have been absent. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and use resources to gamble. You are being excluded from study.

A2933-15-26

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity) and have gone bankrupt. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. You are drinking more alcohol and neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices. You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been late. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A173-16-16

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items, needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol. You are engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues).

A218-16-20

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. You also feel vulnerable. You have reduced savings. Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You have also taken on additional employment. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much and less physically active. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. You feel belittled in your relationship. At work/study you have been late and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression and have conflict with colleagues.

A415-16-23

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). You experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You feel belittled in your relationship.

A446-16-21

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and worthless. You have reduced savings and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are drinking more alcohol. Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast and feel that you have shamed your family name. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. You feel belittled in your relationship. You are being excluded from study.

A447-16-32

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items, needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also taken on additional employment and have gone bankrupt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. At work/study you have been late and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and have conflict with colleagues.

A457-16-20

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are not eating as much as you should. You are drinking more alcohol. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and feel belittled in your relationship. At work/study you have been late. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and have conflict with colleagues.

A524-16-22

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have less spending money, have reduced savings and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A582-16-18

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You have also needed emergency accommodation. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You have attempted suicide. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. At work/study you have been late and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A589-16-13

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and angry. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You are experiencing depression. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

A743-16-20

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You also feel extremely distressed. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. You spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. At work/study you have been late and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A785-16-23

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed to sell personal items. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active. Your tobacco use is increasing. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. At work/study you have been absent.

A852-16-24

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You have also taken on additional employment and have lost assets. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs, have experiences with violence (include family/domestic) and have been arrested for unsafe driving. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been absent. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts and are being excluded from study.

A880-16-32

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much and less physically active. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and feel belittled in your relationship. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and lack progression. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

A910-16-16

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, vulnerable and worthless. You are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. You are not eating as much as you should. You are drinking more alcohol. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

A1011-16-26

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. You are less physically active. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and lack progression.

A1085-16-24

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items and have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are less physically active. You are not eating as much as you should. Within your religious/cultural community, you feel less connected and feel that you have shamed your family name. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time with the people you care about. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression and have conflict with colleagues. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

A1121-16-23

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel worthless. You have less spending money, have reduced savings and are late on bill payments. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A1209-16-18

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are not eating as much as you should. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and experience social isolation.

A1266-16-32

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs and leave your children unsupervised. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have been late and been absent.

A1308-16-28

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

A1341-16-14

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and ashamed. You also feel like a failure. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are eating too much. You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended.

A1401-16-18

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

A1429-16-27

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol. You are not eating as much as you should. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression.

A1443-16-27

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, angry and hopeless. You also feel vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You have also needed emergency accommodation and have gone bankrupt. You are not eating as much as you should. You are drinking more alcohol and using more health services. You have attempted suicide and required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts and have been arrested for unsafe driving. Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast and feel less connected. You experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and lack progression. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts and are being excluded from study.

A1447-16-27

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much and less physically active. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices. You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression and have conflict with colleagues.

A1482-16-22

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active, neglecting your hygiene and neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You are not eating as much as you should. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation.

A1493-16-21

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are experiencing depression. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and use resources to gamble.

A1560-16-19

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and angry. You also feel like a failure and vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed to sell personal items. You are not eating as much as you should. You are drinking more alcohol. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities, feel belittled in your relationship and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression.

A1601-16-26

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. You also feel vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You have also taken on additional employment, lost assets and have lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You have attempted suicide and required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs, have experiences with violence (include family/domestic) and have been arrested for unsafe driving. You are engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been late. Additionally, in your work/study you use resources to gamble. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts and are being excluded from study.

A1744-16-29

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are drinking more alcohol. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices, are an outcast, feel less connected and feel that you have shamed your family name. You are engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have been absent. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A1746-16-27

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and angry. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You have also lost assets and have needed emergency accommodation. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are not eating as much as you should. You are drinking more alcohol and neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast and feel less connected. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs and have been arrested for unsafe driving. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and feel belittled in your relationship. At work/study you have been absent. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble. You are being excluded from study.

A1766-16-27

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much, less physically active, neglecting your hygiene and neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and feel belittled in your relationship. At work/study you have reduced your performance

(e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A1789-16-31

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also taken on additional employment. You are experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active, neglecting your hygiene and neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have been late, been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and lack progression.

A1792-16-20

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. You also feel vulnerable. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You have also lost assets. You are experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much. Your tobacco use is increasing. You have attempted suicide. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts, do not attend fully to your children's needs and have been arrested for unsafe driving. Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and experience social isolation. At work/study you have been late. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and use resources to gamble. You are being excluded from study.

A1825-16-33

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You have also taken on additional employment. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You feel belittled in your relationship. At work/study you have been late, been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble, use resources to gamble and have conflict with colleagues.

A1847-16-13

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and angry. You also feel extremely distressed. You are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). You experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. You feel belittled in your relationship and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A1848-16-19

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. Your relationship has ended.

A1924-16-25

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions) and using more health services. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. Within your religious/cultural community, you feel less connected. You spend less time attending social events.

A1978-16-16

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, angry and distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are less physically active. Your tobacco use is increasing. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. Your relationship has ended.

A2016-16-31

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active, neglecting your hygiene and neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You are not eating as much as you should. You are engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

A2027-16-17

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You are experiencing depression. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and feel belittled in your relationship.

A2048-16-31

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active, neglecting your hygiene and neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You are not eating as much as you should. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and feel belittled in your relationship. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use resources to gamble. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

A2084-16-17

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. You are drinking more alcohol. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. Your relationship has ended.

A2287-16-29

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol. Your tobacco use is increasing. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices and feel less connected. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A2399-16-33

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation.

In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have been late and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression and use resources to gamble.

A2511-16-23

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You have less spending money. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You have also taken on additional employment and have lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are neglecting your hygiene. You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices and are an outcast. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been late. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts and are being excluded from study.

A2928-16-14

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, vulnerable and worthless. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A7-17-13

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. You have thoughts about escaping. You have less spending money, have reduced savings and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You have also lost assets. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so and engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A47-17-18

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and angry. You also feel extremely distressed. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally

(e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are less physically active. Your tobacco use is increasing. You spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A170-17-15

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. You spend less time attending social events. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A251-17-18

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are using more health services. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A276-17-32

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also lost assets. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and feel belittled in your relationship.

A724-17-28

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also lost assets, needed emergency accommodation and have lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active. You spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. At work/study you have been late, been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A736-17-19

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. You are drinking more alcohol. You spend less time attending social events.

A763-17-25

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed. You also feel like a failure, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You have also lost assets. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. You are less physically active. You spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. You neglect your relationship responsibilities, feel belittled in your relationship and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been late and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and lack progression.

A930-17-23

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless.

You also feel like a failure, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are drinking more alcohol. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). You experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A936-17-21

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You have also taken on additional employment. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. You are eating too much. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts and have been arrested for unsafe driving. Within your religious/cultural community, you feel less connected. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been absent. Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression.

A1046-17-31

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items, needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

A1128-17-33

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. You are eating too much and drinking more alcohol. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so and engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have been absent. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

A1153-17-33

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also taken on additional employment, lost assets, lost utilities (e.g. electricity) and have gone bankrupt. You are less physically active, neglecting your hygiene and using more health services. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are also self-harming. You have attempted suicide. You spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been late and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A1285-17-22

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You also feel extremely distressed and worthless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are eating too much and drinking more alcohol. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are also self-harming. You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts and leave your children unsupervised. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time with the people you care about. At work/study you have been late. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and use resources to gamble.

A1414-17-26

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items and have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much, less physically active and neglecting your hygiene. You spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

A1459-17-26

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You also feel extremely distressed and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are eating too much and drinking more alcohol. Within your religious/cultural community, you feel less connected and feel that you have shamed your family name. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A1618-17-15

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You have less spending money. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

A1716-17-34

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are neglecting your hygiene and neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices, feel less connected and feel that you have shamed your family name. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. At work/study you have been late, been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble, use resources to gamble and have conflict with colleagues.

A1736-17-14

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and distressed. You also feel like a failure. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. Your relationship has ended.

A1747-17-27

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, vulnerable and worthless. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices, are an outcast and feel less connected. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A1813-17-19

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are experiencing depression. Your tobacco use is increasing. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

A1818-17-19

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, distressed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed to sell personal items. You have also lost assets. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A1830-17-22

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and worthless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items, needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are neglecting your hygiene. Within your religious/cultural community, you feel that you have shamed your family name. You spend less time attending social events. At work/study you have been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

A1835-17-13

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You also feel extremely distressed. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You have also lost assets. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are neglecting your hygiene. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices and are an outcast. You spend less time with the people you care about. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been late. You have lost your job.

A1920-17-20

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also taken on additional employment. You are experiencing depression. Your tobacco use is increasing. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been absent. Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression.

A1961-17-34

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also taken on additional employment. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are drinking more alcohol and neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have been late and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

A1993-17-18

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings. You have also lost assets. You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected) and self-harming. You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices, feel less connected and feel that you have shamed your family name. You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been late. Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression. You are being excluded from study.

A2033-17-22

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure and worthless. You have less spending money and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are eating too much and less physically active. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and promising to pay back money without intending to do so. Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast and feel less connected. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. At work/study you have been late and been absent. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A2037-17-32

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and worthless. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also lost assets. You are experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts. Within your religious/cultural community, you feel that you have shamed your family name. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have been late, been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A2045-17-21

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You also feel vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You have also taken on additional employment and have lost assets. You are not eating as much as you should. You are neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You have attempted suicide. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices, are an outcast and feel less connected. You spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. Your relationship has ended. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and use resources to gamble. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts and are being excluded from study.

A2093-17-13

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, angry and hopeless. You have reduced savings and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You are experiencing depression. You are using more health services. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

A2127-17-13

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. You have less spending money, have reduced savings and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You have also taken on additional employment. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You spend less time with the people you care about. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. Additionally, in your work/study you have conflict with colleagues.

A2384-17-21

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have less spending money. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You have also taken on additional employment. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active. Your tobacco use is increasing. You spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

A2720-17-17

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You have reduced savings. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You have also taken on additional employment and have lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are drinking more alcohol and neglecting your hygiene. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so and engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You spend less time with the people you care about. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts and are being excluded from study.

A2761-17-29

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also taken on additional employment, lost utilities (e.g. electricity) and have gone bankrupt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are eating too much, drinking more alcohol and neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You have attempted suicide. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices, are an outcast and feel less connected. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been late. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble, lack progression and use resources to gamble. You are being excluded from study and have lost your job.

A2906-17-31

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items and have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices and are an outcast. You also leave your children unsupervised and have been arrested for unsafe driving. You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been late. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts and have lost your job.

A2912-17-28

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You have also taken on additional employment and have lost assets. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are drinking more alcohol and using more health services. You are also self-harming. You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts, do not attend fully to your children's needs and have been arrested for unsafe driving. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices and are an outcast. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been late. Additionally, in your work/study you use resources to gamble and have conflict with colleagues. You are being excluded from study.

A2989-17-13

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel vulnerable. You are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol. You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and use resources to gamble.

A3052-17-30

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items and have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active, neglecting your hygiene and neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You are not eating as much as you should. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

A13-18-34

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items, needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much, less physically active, neglecting your hygiene and using more health services. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected) and self-harming. You have attempted suicide. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and feel belittled in your relationship.

A16-18-23

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You also feel extremely distressed. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed to sell personal items. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices. You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression and have conflict with colleagues.

A19-18-22

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much, less physically active and drinking more alcohol. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices and feel less connected. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A37-18-16

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You have also gone bankrupt. You are engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You have lost your job.

A162-18-27

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and worthless. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items and have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You have also gone bankrupt. You are experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts and have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices and feel that you have shamed your family name. You spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression. You have lost your job.

A240-18-29

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and ashamed. You also feel like a failure, vulnerable and worthless. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also taken on additional employment. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much, less physically active and drinking more alcohol. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking, promising to pay back money without intending to do so and engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You feel belittled in your relationship. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and use resources to gamble.

A316-18-23

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much, less physically active and drinking more alcohol. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict.

A338-18-18

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel vulnerable. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been late and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A342-18-27

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You have reduced savings and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed to sell personal items. You have also taken on additional employment, needed emergency accommodation and have lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are experiencing depression. You are less physically active and neglecting your hygiene. You are not eating as much as you should. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices. You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have been late. Additionally, in your work/study you use resources to gamble. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts and have lost your job.

A364-18-30

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items and have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended.

A390-18-18

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much and less physically active. You spend less time attending social events. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A393-18-24

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. You are eating too much, drinking more alcohol and using more health services. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so and engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

A460-18-32

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items, needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also needed emergency accommodation. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. You are less physically active. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking, promising to pay back money without intending to do so and engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities, feel belittled in your relationship and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and have conflict with colleagues.

A465-18-33

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also gone bankrupt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active, drinking more alcohol and neglecting your hygiene. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts. Within your religious/cultural community, you feel that you have shamed your family name. You spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. You neglect your relationship responsibilities, feel belittled in your relationship and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and use resources to gamble.

A512-18-15

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are not eating as much as you should. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A566-18-32

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and angry. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also lost assets. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are eating too much, less physically active and drinking more alcohol. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. Within your religious/cultural community, you feel that you have shamed your family name. You also have been arrested for unsafe driving. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities, feel belittled in your relationship and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

A646-18-27

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active and neglecting your hygiene. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A720-18-29

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You also feel vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also taken on additional employment and have gone bankrupt. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. At work/study you have been late, been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble, lack progression and have conflict with colleagues. You have lost your job.

A752-18-33

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and ashamed. You also feel extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also lost assets and have lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol. You are not eating as much as you should. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

A777-18-19

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

A821-18-28

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation.

A954-18-22

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much, drinking more alcohol and neglecting your hygiene. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A966-18-14

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You spend less time with the people you care about. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

A971-18-27

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol and using more health services. You spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended.

A1028-18-18

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel vulnerable and worthless. You have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity) and have gone bankrupt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are drinking more alcohol and neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast. You also have been arrested for unsafe driving. You spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and feel belittled in your relationship. Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression. You are being excluded from study.

A1034-18-21

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are drinking more alcohol. At work/study you have been late and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A1195-18-32

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You have also taken on additional employment, needed emergency accommodation and have gone bankrupt. You are less physically active, neglecting your hygiene and using more health services. Your tobacco use is increasing. You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts, have experiences with violence (include family/domestic) and leave your children unsupervised. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices and feel that you have shamed your family name. You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble. You are being excluded from study.

A1249-18-22

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have less spending money, have reduced savings and are late on bill payments. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are eating too much, less physically active and drinking more alcohol. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You are engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. At work/study you have been absent.

A1261-18-29

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed to sell personal items. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. You are less physically active. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended.

A1276-18-17

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and ashamed. You also feel extremely distressed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also lost assets. You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A1464-18-30

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, angry and distressed. You also feel like a failure, vulnerable and worthless. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g.

insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. You are eating too much and less physically active. You are engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

A1561-18-17

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and angry. You also feel extremely distressed. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol and neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You have attempted suicide. You also leave your children unsupervised. You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A1643-18-31

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, vulnerable and worthless. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items, needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also gone bankrupt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active and neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been late, been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts and have lost your job.

A1644-18-14

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure. You have thoughts about escaping. You are late on bill payments. You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are eating too much. You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts and have been arrested for unsafe driving. You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. At work/study you have been absent. You are being excluded from study.

A1648-18-35

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active and neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You are not eating as much as you should. You have attempted suicide. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. At work/study you have been late and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression.

A1650-18-22

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. You have also needed emergency accommodation and have lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are also self-harming. You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast and feel less connected. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you have conflict with colleagues. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts and are being excluded from study.

A1661-18-16

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You spend less recreationally (e.g.

movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are experiencing depression. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are neglecting your hygiene. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time with the people you care about. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been absent.

A1688-18-16

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also lost assets. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol. You spend less time with the people you care about. At work/study you have been late.

A1738-18-17

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and angry. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol. You are not eating as much as you should. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict.

A1893-18-22

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are neglecting your hygiene and using more health services. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities, feel belittled in your relationship and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

A1919-18-26

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, vulnerable and worthless. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are drinking more alcohol and neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A1962-18-28

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. You also feel worthless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity) and have gone bankrupt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. You are not eating as much as you should. You are drinking more alcohol. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts and do not attend fully to your children's needs. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices, are an outcast and feel less connected. You experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been late and been absent. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and lack progression.

A2028-18-27

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, angry and hopeless. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are eating too much, less physically active, drinking more alcohol and neglecting your hygiene. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs, leave your children unsupervised and have been arrested for unsafe driving. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

A2076-18-25

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items and have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. You are less physically active and neglecting your hygiene. You are not eating as much as you should. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic) and leave your children unsupervised. You spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A2126-18-29

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed to sell personal items. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are drinking more alcohol. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities, feel belittled in your relationship and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and lack progression.

A2129-18-35

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and worthless. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed to sell personal items. You have also lost assets and have gone bankrupt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking, promising to pay back money without intending to do so and engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and use resources to gamble.

A2373-18-21

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You have also lost assets. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are not eating as much as you should.

A2387-18-28

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You also feel like a failure and worthless. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed to sell personal items. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are less physically active and neglecting your hygiene. You are not eating as much as you should. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have been late. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble, lack progression, use resources to gamble and have conflict with colleagues.

A2408-18-27

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel vulnerable. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also taken on additional employment. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are less physically active and neglecting your hygiene. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been late and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A2448-18-28

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are not eating as much as you should. You are using more health services. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

A2724-18-12

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been absent. You are being excluded from study.

A2818-18-26

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure. You have reduced savings and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. You are less physically active and neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. At work/study you have been late, been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A2944-18-24

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. You also feel vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity) and have gone bankrupt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices and are an outcast. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been late.

A34-19-32

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also lost assets. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active and using more health services. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices and feel less connected. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use resources to gamble.

A43-19-17

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You also feel extremely distressed. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed to sell personal items. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices. You are engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict.

A103-19-16

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items, needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also lost assets, needed emergency accommodation and have lost utilities (e.g. electricity). In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. Your relationship has ended.

A181-19-24

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed and hopeless. You also feel worthless. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol. Your tobacco use is increasing. You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts, leave your children unsupervised and have been arrested for unsafe driving. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices and are an outcast. You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble. You are being excluded from study.

A434-19-26

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and worthless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items, needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much, less physically active and neglecting your hygiene. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

A858-19-26

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have been late.

A875-19-22

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol. You are not eating as much as you should. You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

A922-19-23

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and distressed. You also feel vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also taken on additional employment. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much and less physically active. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

A1080-19-19

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You also feel extremely distressed and worthless. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol. Your tobacco use is increasing. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events.

A1144-19-19

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items, needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You spend less time with the people you care about. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use resources to gamble. You have lost your job.

A1156-19-26

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression. You have lost your job.

A1181-19-28

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are not eating as much as you should. You are neglecting your hygiene and neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You are engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). Within your religious/cultural community, you feel that you have shamed your family name. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities, feel belittled in your relationship and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

A1224-19-30

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and hopeless. You also feel worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You have also taken on additional employment and have needed emergency accommodation. You are less physically active, drinking more alcohol and neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You have attempted suicide and required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so and engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices and feel that you have shamed your family name. You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic) and leave your children unsupervised. You spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use resources to gamble. You have lost your job.

A1371-19-35

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You have also taken on additional employment. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much, less physically active, drinking more alcohol and neglecting your hygiene. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts. Within your religious/cultural community, you feel that you have shamed your family name. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and use resources to gamble.

A1406-19-33

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items, needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also taken on additional employment and have gone bankrupt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. You are eating too much, neglecting your hygiene and using more health services. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. You feel belittled in your relationship.

A1446-19-32

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much, less physically active, drinking more alcohol and neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). Your tobacco use is increasing. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have been late.

A1523-19-28

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also taken on additional employment and have gone bankrupt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are less physically active. You are not eating as much as you should. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A1550-19-27

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items and have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking, promising to pay back money without intending to do so and engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression.

A1580-19-33

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You have also taken on additional employment. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g.

high blood pressure). You are eating too much, neglecting your hygiene and neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). Within your religious/cultural community, you feel less connected. You spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You feel belittled in your relationship. At work/study you have been late, been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and lack progression.

A1598-19-20

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and distressed. You also feel like a failure and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You are experiencing depression. Your tobacco use is increasing. You have attempted suicide. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts, do not attend fully to your children's needs and have been arrested for unsafe driving. Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast and feel less connected. You spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

A2031-19-27

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are drinking more alcohol. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have been late, been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A2117-19-41

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed to sell personal items. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much, less physically active, drinking more alcohol, neglecting your hygiene, neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions) and using more health services. Your tobacco use is increasing. You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices and feel less connected. You spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have been late, been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression and have conflict with colleagues. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

A2132-19-26

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed to sell personal items. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are drinking more alcohol. You are also self-harming. You have attempted suicide. You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

A2158-19-41

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items, needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also taken on additional employment, lost assets and have lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active, drinking more alcohol, neglecting your hygiene and neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You are taking money/ items from family or friends without asking, promising to pay back money without intending to do so and engaging in petty theft/ dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts, leave your children unsupervised and have been arrested for unsafe driving. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You feel belittled in your relationship.

A2424-19-18

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also lost assets. You are less physically active. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time with the people you care about. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been absent.

A2754-19-28

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity) and have gone bankrupt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol. You are not eating as much as you should. You have attempted suicide and required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast and feel less connected. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been absent. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and lack progression. You are being excluded from study.

A2781-19-30

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items, needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also lost assets and have gone bankrupt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active and neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You spend less time with the people you care about. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A2998-19-19

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure. You are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed to sell personal items. You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are neglecting your hygiene and neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices. You are engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been absent. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble. You are being excluded from study.

A82-20-27

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have reduced savings and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items and have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are neglecting your hygiene. You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so and engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). Within your religious/cultural community, you feel less connected and feel that you have shamed your family name. You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and feel belittled in your relationship. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A195-20-40

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You also feel extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You have also lost assets, lost utilities (e.g. electricity) and have gone bankrupt. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are neglecting your hygiene. You have attempted suicide and required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts, do not attend fully to your children's needs, have experiences with violence (include family/domestic) and have been arrested for unsafe driving. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices and feel that you have shamed your family name. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been absent. Additionally, in your work/study you use resources to gamble. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts, are being excluded from study and have lost your job.

A282-20-31

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and hopeless. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You have also taken on additional employment, needed emergency accommodation and have gone bankrupt. You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are drinking more alcohol, neglecting your hygiene and using more health services. You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices. You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic) and leave your children unsupervised. You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use resources to gamble. You have lost your job.

A444-20-27

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You have reduced savings, are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed to sell personal items. You have also lost assets. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol. You are not eating as much as you should. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have been late and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A517-20-22

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You also feel extremely distressed. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A595-20-33

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. You are less physically active, neglecting your hygiene and neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and feel belittled in your relationship. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

A740-20-33

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also taken on additional employment. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are not eating as much as you should. You are neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and feel belittled in your relationship. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A839-20-36

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. You also feel like a failure and vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items, needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. You are less physically active, neglecting your hygiene and neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). Your tobacco use is increasing. You have attempted suicide. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices, are an outcast and feel less connected. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have been late and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you have conflict with colleagues.

A1096-20-37

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active and neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been late, been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A1111-20-18

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and vulnerable. You are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

A1168-20-33

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. You also feel vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items and have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You have also lost assets and have needed emergency accommodation. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. You are less physically active and neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You have attempted suicide and required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts, have experiences with violence (include family/domestic) and leave your children unsupervised. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use resources to gamble. You have lost your job.

A1192-20-33

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items, needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also taken on additional employment. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs and leave your children unsupervised. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities, feel belittled in your relationship and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

A1232-20-36

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and angry. You also feel vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. You are less physically active, drinking more alcohol and using more health services. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been late, been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A1318-20-23

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and hopeless. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You have also lost assets and have lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are less physically active and neglecting your hygiene. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You also leave your children unsupervised. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been late. You are being excluded from study.

A1633-20-15

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You have also taken on additional employment. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. You are eating too much and using more health services. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression.

A1709-20-30

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You have also taken on additional employment. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. You are less physically active. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected) and self-harming. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities, feel belittled in your relationship and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression.

A1755-20-32

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are neglecting your hygiene and using more health services. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

A2058-20-36

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also taken on additional employment. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are not eating as much as you should. You are drinking more alcohol, neglecting your hygiene and neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You are engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and feel belittled in your relationship. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and lack progression.

A2061-20-35

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless.

You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active, drinking more alcohol and using more health services. Your tobacco use is increasing. You have attempted suicide. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have been late, been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and lack progression. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts and have lost your job.

A2105-20-23

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You also feel extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You have also taken on additional employment, lost assets, needed emergency accommodation and have lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are using more health services. You have attempted suicide. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast. You also have been arrested for unsafe driving. You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. Your relationship has ended. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts and have lost your job.

A2225-20-29

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. You are less physically active, drinking more alcohol and using more health services. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression.

A2299-20-29

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A2355-20-16

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are not eating as much as you should. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and promising to pay back money without intending to do so. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression.

A2422-20-23

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much. Your tobacco use is increasing. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. At work/study you have been absent. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A2791-20-36

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active, drinking more alcohol, neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions) and using more health services. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression.

A3060-20-21

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items and have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You have also taken on additional employment and have lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much and neglecting your hygiene. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast and feel less connected. You spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been late. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts and have lost your job.

A147-21-26

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed and hopeless. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed to sell personal items. You have also lost assets. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts, do not attend fully to your children's needs and leave your children unsupervised. Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been late and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). You are being excluded from study.

A223-21-29

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You have also lost assets. You are less physically active and neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). Your tobacco use is increasing. You have attempted suicide. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so and engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast and feel that you have shamed your family name. You also leave your children unsupervised. You experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities, feel belittled in your relationship and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and have conflict with colleagues. You have lost your job.

A336-21-21

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed to sell personal items. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble. You have lost your job.

A367-21-29

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and worthless. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also lost assets and have gone bankrupt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are not eating as much as you should. You are drinking more alcohol. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You spend less time with the people you care about. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and use resources to gamble. You have lost your job.

A376-21-37

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You have also taken on additional employment. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much, less physically active, neglecting your hygiene, neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions) and using more health services. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have been late, been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A395-21-31

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You also feel extremely distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items, needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also taken on additional employment and have lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. Within your religious/cultural community, you feel that you have shamed your family name. You spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

A490-21-33

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items, needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also lost assets, needed emergency accommodation and have lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active, drinking more alcohol and neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). Your tobacco use is increasing. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities, feel belittled in your relationship and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been late, been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A775-21-40

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items, needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also taken on additional employment and have lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active, neglecting your hygiene and neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs and leave your children unsupervised. You spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been late, been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and lack progression.

A975-21-28

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed to sell personal items. You have also lost assets and have lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are experiencing depression. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts and do not attend fully to your children's needs. Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been absent. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and lack progression. You are being excluded from study.

A1009-21-27

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You have also lost assets and have lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and promising to pay back money without intending to do so. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices and are an outcast. You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been absent. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble. You have lost your job.

A1101-21-19

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel worthless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are drinking more alcohol. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict.

A1376-21-30

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items and have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You have also lost assets and have needed emergency accommodation. You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are drinking more alcohol and neglecting your hygiene. You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts and leave your children unsupervised. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices. You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been late. Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts and are being excluded from study.

A1425-21-33

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much, less physically active and drinking more alcohol. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and use resources to gamble.

A1849-21-30

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed to sell personal items. You are experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much, less physically active, drinking more alcohol, neglecting your hygiene and neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and feel belittled in your relationship. At work/study you have been late and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A1853-21-34

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items, needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active, neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions) and using more health services. Your tobacco use is increasing. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities, feel belittled in your relationship and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A1861-21-24

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. You are engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A1894-21-23

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure and worthless. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. You are less physically active. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. At work/study you have been late, been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A2338-21-30

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items, needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also lost assets. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities, feel belittled in your relationship and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been late.

A2883-21-33

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You have also gone bankrupt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol. You are not eating as much as you should. You spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you have conflict with colleagues.

A6-22-34

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, distressed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also lost assets, needed emergency accommodation and have lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are less physically active, neglecting your hygiene and neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You are not eating as much as you should. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You have attempted suicide. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking, promising to pay back money without intending to do so and engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. You neglect your relationship responsibilities, feel belittled in your relationship and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been late and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A236-22-26

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices and feel less connected. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been late and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). You have lost your job.

A312-22-34

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much, less physically active and neglecting your hygiene. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A428-22-32

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active, drinking more alcohol and using more health services. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended.

A543-22-28

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also gone bankrupt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. You are less physically active. You are not eating as much as you should. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been absent. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A670-22-31

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are drinking more alcohol, neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions) and using more health services. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so and engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A874-22-33

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed to sell personal items. You have also lost assets and have lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are eating too much, neglecting your hygiene and neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts, do not attend fully to your children's needs and have been arrested for unsafe driving. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices and are an outcast. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been late. Additionally, in your work/study you use resources to gamble. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts and are being excluded from study.

A921-22-40

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also lost assets. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active, drinking more alcohol and neglecting your hygiene. You are not eating as much as you should. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and feel belittled in your relationship. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble, lack progression and have conflict with colleagues. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

A1250-22-26

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. You are not eating as much as you should. You are drinking more alcohol, neglecting your hygiene and neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You spend less time attending social events. At work/study you have been late.

A1665-22-28

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

A2018-22-25

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You also feel like a failure and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You have also taken on additional employment, lost assets and have needed emergency accommodation. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. You are drinking more alcohol. You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices and feel less connected. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. Your relationship has ended. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and lack progression. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

A2207-22-30

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also gone bankrupt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol and using more health services. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts, do not attend fully to your children's needs and have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A2674-22-24

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed to sell personal items. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are also self-harming. You have attempted suicide. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

A28-23-38

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are drinking more alcohol. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking, promising to pay back money without intending to do so and engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been late, been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

A124-23-22

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active. You are not eating as much as you should. You spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A417-23-24

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have less spending money. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed to sell personal items. You have also needed emergency accommodation. You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active and neglecting your hygiene. You have attempted suicide. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts and have been arrested for unsafe driving. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices and are an outcast. You spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. Your relationship has ended. Additionally, in your work/study you use resources to gamble. You have lost your job.

A768-23-33

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items, needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are neglecting your hygiene. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You experience social isolation. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and feel belittled in your relationship. At work/study you have been late and been absent. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

A816-23-39

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also gone bankrupt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active, drinking more alcohol and neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are also self-harming. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices and feel less connected. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs and leave your children unsupervised. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

A908-23-42

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs and leave your children unsupervised. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been late, been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and lack progression.

A976-23-39

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active. You are not eating as much as you should. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts and do not attend fully to your children's needs. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and use resources to gamble. You have lost your job.

A1117-23-26

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, distressed and hopeless. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active and neglecting your hygiene. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts, do not attend fully to your children's needs and leave your children unsupervised. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time with the people you care about. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been late, been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). You are being excluded from study and have lost your job.

A1307-23-36

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active, drinking more alcohol and using more health services. You are also self-harming. You have attempted suicide. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices and feel less connected. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities, feel belittled in your relationship and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been late and been absent. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and use resources to gamble.

A1767-23-30

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and angry. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food).

You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are drinking more alcohol. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts and have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). Within your religious/cultural community, you feel less connected. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been late and been absent. Additionally, in your work/study you use resources to gamble.

A2111-23-22

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and worthless. You have less spending money, have reduced savings and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active. Your tobacco use is increasing. You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict.

A2234-23-35

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are not eating as much as you should. You are drinking more alcohol. You are taking money/ items from family or friends without asking and engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and feel belittled in your relationship. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A2751-23-32

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items, needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also taken on additional employment, lost assets, needed emergency accommodation, lost utilities (e.g. electricity) and have gone bankrupt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active and neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You are not eating as much as you should. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast. You spend less time with the people you care about. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). You have lost your job.

A2904-23-41

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have less spending money, have reduced savings and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed to sell personal items. You have also taken on additional employment and have gone bankrupt. You are experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active, neglecting your hygiene and neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are also self-harming. You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so and engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts and have been arrested for unsafe driving. Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A2907-23-21

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, distressed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so and engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You also do not attend fully to your children's needs and leave your children unsupervised. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). You have lost your job.

A3032-23-21

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed and hopeless. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items, needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also taken on additional employment. You are less physically active. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices. You spend less time with the people you care about. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). You are being excluded from study and have lost your job.

A53-24-26

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are drinking more alcohol. You are also self-harming. You have attempted suicide. You spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. At work/study you have been late. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A692-24-36

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active. You are not eating as much as you should. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and feel belittled in your relationship. At work/study you have been late, been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A931-24-22

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, distressed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed to sell personal items. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. You are not eating as much as you should. You are drinking more alcohol and neglecting your hygiene. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts. You are engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A1211-24-31

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

A1771-24-28

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are drinking more alcohol. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

A153-25-45

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are drinking more alcohol, neglecting your hygiene and neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking, promising to pay back money without intending to do so and engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts, do not attend fully to your children's needs and leave your children unsupervised. Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been late and been absent. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble, use resources to gamble and have conflict with colleagues.

A1632-25-25

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much, drinking more alcohol and neglecting your hygiene. Your tobacco use is increasing. Within your religious/cultural community, you feel less connected. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

A1800-25-37

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have been late, been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

A2102-25-35

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items, needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also needed emergency accommodation. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are neglecting your hygiene and using more health services. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking, promising to pay back money without intending to do so and engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts, have experiences with violence (include family/domestic) and leave your children unsupervised. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended.

A2689-25-41

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active, drinking more alcohol, neglecting your hygiene and using more health services. You are not eating as much as you should. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). You spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been late, been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and lack progression. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

A587-26-45

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items, needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also taken on additional employment. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active, drinking more alcohol, neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions) and using more health services. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are also self-harming. You have attempted suicide. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts and have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). You are engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A634-26-26

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You feel belittled in your relationship and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

A1850-26-40

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You have also taken on additional employment. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active, drinking more alcohol and neglecting your hygiene. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been late, been absent and reduced your performance

(e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and lack progression. You are being excluded from study.

A2765-26-34

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items and have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You have also lost assets and have lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active, neglecting your hygiene and neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You are not eating as much as you should. You have attempted suicide. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been late and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use resources to gamble. You have lost your job.

A48-27-33

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active, drinking more alcohol, neglecting your hygiene, neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions) and using more health services. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and feel belittled in your relationship.

A126-27-37

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless.

You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active, neglecting your hygiene and neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. Within your religious/cultural community, you feel that you have shamed your family name. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and feel belittled in your relationship.

A192-27-30

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also lost assets and have gone bankrupt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are drinking more alcohol. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts. You are engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events.

A267-27-43

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items, needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also lost assets, lost utilities (e.g. electricity) and have gone bankrupt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active, drinking more alcohol, neglecting your hygiene, neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions) and using more health services. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected) and self-harming. You have attempted suicide and required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You also have been arrested for unsafe driving. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

A888-27-35

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have less spending money and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active, drinking more alcohol, neglecting your hygiene, neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions) and using more health services. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs, have experiences with violence (include family/domestic) and leave your children unsupervised. You spend less time with the people you care about. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and use resources to gamble. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

A895-27-44

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also taken on additional employment. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active, drinking more alcohol, neglecting your hygiene and neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You are not eating as much as you should. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities, feel belittled in your relationship and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been late, been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble, lack progression, use resources to gamble and have conflict with colleagues.

A981-27-36

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, distressed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items, needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also lost assets and have lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking, promising to pay back money without intending to do so and engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You also do not attend fully to your children's needs and have been arrested for unsafe driving. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been late and been absent. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble, lack progression and use resources to gamble.

A994-27-32

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have been late, been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A997-27-43

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also taken on additional employment. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much, less physically active, drinking more alcohol, neglecting your hygiene, neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions) and using more health services. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have been late, been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble, lack progression, use resources to gamble and have conflict with colleagues.

A1199-27-41

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items, needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also lost assets. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active, neglecting your hygiene and neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You are not eating as much as you should. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts and do not attend fully to your children's needs. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have been late and been absent. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble. You have lost your job.

A1395-27-47

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active, drinking more alcohol, neglecting your hygiene, neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions) and using more health services. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and feel belittled in your relationship. At work/study you have been late, been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble, lack progression, use resources to gamble and have conflict with colleagues. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

A1457-27-23

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You have also gone bankrupt. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have been late, been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

A1608-27-19

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry, distressed and hopeless. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are less physically active and neglecting your hygiene. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts and leave your children unsupervised. You are engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been late and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). You have lost your job.

A1718-27-29

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have less spending money, have reduced savings and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed to sell personal items. You have also gone bankrupt. You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are not eating as much as you should. You are drinking more alcohol. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You have attempted suicide and required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices and feel less connected. You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). You experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. Your relationship has ended. Additionally, in your work/study you use resources to gamble and have conflict with colleagues. You are being excluded from study.

A1745-27-30

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. You also feel extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are not eating as much as you should. You are neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so and engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices and feel that you have shamed your family name. You spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been late and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble. You are being excluded from study.

A1816-27-33

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. You are less physically active, drinking more alcohol and neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been late and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A2149-27-52

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items, needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also taken on additional employment, lost assets, needed emergency accommodation and have lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active, drinking more alcohol, neglecting your hygiene, neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions) and using more health services. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and promising to pay back money without intending to do so. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices, are an outcast, feel less connected and feel that you have shamed your family name. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

A2160-27-44

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also taken on additional employment, lost assets and have needed emergency accommodation. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active, drinking more alcohol and neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You are not eating as much as you should. You are also self-harming. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and feel belittled in your relationship. At work/study you have been late, been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble, use resources to gamble and have conflict with colleagues.

A2199-27-40

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items, needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active and neglecting your hygiene. You have attempted suicide. Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast and feel that you have shamed your family name. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs and leave your children unsupervised. You are engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been late, been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use resources to gamble. You have lost your job.

A2237-27-20

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You have reduced savings. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You have also taken on additional employment and have gone bankrupt. You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are drinking more alcohol. You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You also have been arrested for unsafe driving. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time attending social events. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been late. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts and are being excluded from study.

A2292-27-37

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed to sell personal items. You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. You are less physically active, drinking more alcohol and neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You are not eating as much as you should. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). Within your religious/cultural community, you feel less connected and feel that you have shamed your family name. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities, feel belittled in your relationship and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been late, been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A2426-27-40

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also gone bankrupt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol. Your tobacco use is increasing. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts. You are engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been late, been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

A2452-27-49

Your gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel regretful, ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items, needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also lost assets and have lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking, promising to pay back money without intending to do so and engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities, feel belittled in your relationship and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been late, been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble, lack progression and have conflict with colleagues. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

```
> for (n in 1:length(textvigB))
+ {
+   cat(names(textvigB)[n])
+   cat("\n")
+   cat(textvigB[n])
+   cat("\n")
+   cat("\n")
+ }
```

B296-0-5

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed and hopeless. You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You spend less time with the people you care about. Your relationship has ended.

B753-0-3

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and distressed. You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure).

B838-0-15

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended.

B1117-0-9

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. Your relationship has ended. Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression.

B1135-0-7

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and hopeless. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You have also lost assets. You are drinking more alcohol. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B1718-0-8

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure. You have thoughts about escaping. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast and feel less connected. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble. You are being excluded from study.

B1859-0-4

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel hopeless. You also feel vulnerable. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol.

B751-1-2

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and distressed.

B769-1-1

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict.

B1249-1-2

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol.

B1616-1-2

A close family member's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation.

B300-2-3

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out).

B450-2-3

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel vulnerable. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling.

B639-2-6

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You also do not attend fully to your children's needs and leave your children unsupervised. You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events.

B784-2-2

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed. You are drinking more alcohol.

B868-2-5

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict.

B1643-2-6

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about.

B1699-2-7

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time attending social events. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B1731-2-5

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed. You are drinking more alcohol. You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

B1758-2-3

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events.

B1871-2-1

A close co-worker/colleague's gambling is affecting your quality of life. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B117-3-5

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed and hopeless. You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic) and leave your children unsupervised. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B553-3-6

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are experiencing depression. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so.

B638-3-5

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You spend less time with the people you care about.

B715-3-2

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. Your relationship has ended.

B902-3-3

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). At work/study you have been late.

B945-3-3

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You also do not attend fully to your children's needs.

B1024-3-7

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B1231-3-6

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed and hopeless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

B1289-3-7

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel hopeless. You also feel worthless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are eating too much. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. Your relationship has ended.

B1300-3-4

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You are drinking more alcohol. You are also living in unhygienic conditions

(e.g. living rough, neglected). You spend less time with the people you care about. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B1894-3-3

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed and hopeless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out).

B1904-3-6

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are experiencing depression. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. Your relationship has ended.

B1919-3-9

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed and hopeless. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B29-4-13

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry, distressed and hopeless. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You are experiencing depression. You are eating too much and neglecting your hygiene. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. Your relationship has ended.

B85-4-8

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B375-4-7

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed. You have less spending money. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You feel belittled in your relationship.

B383-4-11

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, distressed and hopeless. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You feel belittled in your relationship.

B504-4-3

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You are eating too much. You spend less time with the people you care about.

B548-4-9

Your child's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel vulnerable. You have less spending money. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

B684-4-8

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict.

B746-4-9

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict.

B849-4-8

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and distressed. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B993-4-4

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed and hopeless. Within your religious/cultural community, you feel that you have shamed your family name. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

B1229-4-12

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have less spending money. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You feel belittled in your relationship and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B1235-4-10

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You also feel extremely distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. Your relationship has ended.

B1309-4-8

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and hopeless. You are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also lost assets. You are not eating as much as you should. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression.

B1339-4-5

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel hopeless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B1403-4-5

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and distressed. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B1656-4-6

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict.

B1834-4-6

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are less physically active. Within your religious/cultural community, you feel less connected. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

B46-5-4

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict.

B139-5-4

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and distressed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict.

B252-5-11

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and distressed. You also feel like a failure, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are eating too much. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B358-5-12

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel extremely distressed. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. You are eating too much. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You feel belittled in your relationship. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

B562-5-5

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You are late on bill payments. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B595-5-3

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and distressed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out).

B723-5-6

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and hopeless. You are less physically active. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You feel belittled in your relationship and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B910-5-5

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed and hopeless. You have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

B1101-5-9

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict.

B1123-5-8

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel extremely distressed. You have less spending money and are late on bill payments. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. You experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

B1134-5-13

Your child's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel vulnerable. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and promising to pay back money without intending to do so. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict.

B1155-5-3

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. Within your religious/cultural community, you feel less connected. You spend less time with the people you care about.

B1284-5-11

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and distressed. You also feel vulnerable. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended.

B1328-5-10

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and distressed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B1360-5-9

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed and hopeless. You have less spending money. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression.

B1472-5-7

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict.

B1595-5-10

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You are drinking more alcohol and neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B1604-5-13

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, distressed and hopeless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. You are drinking more alcohol. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended.

B1668-5-7

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B1671-5-2

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food).

B1768-5-17

A close family member's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, distressed and hopeless. You have less spending money. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much and drinking more alcohol. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and feel belittled in your relationship.

B1788-5-16

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You feel belittled in your relationship. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

B1864-5-3

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel extremely distressed. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict.

B1865-5-6

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry, distressed and hopeless. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

B1903-5-6

A close family member's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed. You have less spending money. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B2-6-6

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and distressed. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

B12-6-5

Your sibling's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You spend less time attending social events. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

B119-6-4

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry, distressed and hopeless. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

B265-6-7

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

B352-6-9

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and distressed. You also feel vulnerable. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You feel belittled in your relationship and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B397-6-9

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Within your religious/cultural community, you feel less connected. You spend less time with the people you care about. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been late.

B411-6-7

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry, distressed and hopeless. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. At work/study you have been absent.

B472-6-5

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel vulnerable. Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations.

B510-6-12

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression.

B516-6-4

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry, distressed and hopeless. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict.

B523-6-3

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and distressed.

B601-6-7

Your sibling's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed. You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are not eating as much as you should. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B607-6-8

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B635-6-5

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You also feel vulnerable. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

B716-6-5

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry, distressed and hopeless. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict.

B720-6-5

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B800-6-6

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are experiencing depression. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict.

B814-6-13

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B822-6-7

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended.

B832-6-9

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed and hopeless. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Your tobacco use is increasing. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

B848-6-5

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict.

B985-6-4

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel hopeless. You are experiencing depression. You are not eating as much as you should. You spend less time with the people you care about.

B1146-6-4

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time attending social events.

B1271-6-8

Your sibling's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, distressed and hopeless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict.

B1311-6-7

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel hopeless. You also feel vulnerable. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B1315-6-8

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed. You have less spending money. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B1321-6-5

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry, distressed and hopeless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments.

B1401-6-11

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B1434-6-2

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

B1435-6-10

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed and hopeless. You also feel vulnerable. You have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You feel belittled in your relationship and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B1462-6-3

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed. You spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

B1542-6-4

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You spend less time attending social events.

B1572-6-3

A close family member's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You feel belittled in your relationship.

B1619-6-3

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You also feel extremely distressed.

B1650-6-4

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. At work/study you have been late. Additionally, in your work/study you use resources to gamble.

B1697-6-9

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are drinking more alcohol. You are also self-harming. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

B1750-6-11

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You also have been arrested for unsafe driving. You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts and are being excluded from study.

B1779-6-7

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and distressed. You also feel vulnerable. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

B1848-6-4

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You have thoughts about escaping. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B94-7-8

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You have thoughts about escaping. You have also lost assets. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. Within your religious/cultural community, you feel less connected. You experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

B148-7-8

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. Your tobacco use is increasing. Within your religious/cultural community, you feel less connected. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. You feel belittled in your relationship.

B162-7-8

A close family member's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and distressed. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events.

B209-7-9

Your sibling's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are not eating as much as you should. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast. You spend less time with the people you care about. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been late.

B224-7-8

A close family member's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and hopeless. You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are not eating as much as you should. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices. You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and experience social isolation.

B233-7-8

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed and hopeless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You spend less time attending social events. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B258-7-5

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are eating too much. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict.

B279-7-4

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You experience social isolation.

B338-7-4

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry, distressed and hopeless. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling.

B354-7-4

Your sibling's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You feel belittled in your relationship.

B424-7-8

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and distressed. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

B486-7-6

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict.

B536-7-5

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You feel belittled in your relationship.

B605-7-15

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

B608-7-6

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B618-7-8

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry, distressed and hopeless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You feel belittled in your relationship.

B625-7-15

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. You also feel extremely distressed. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are experiencing depression. Your tobacco use is increasing. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. Your relationship has ended. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

B689-7-7

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed and hopeless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. Your relationship has ended.

B775-7-13

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and distressed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been late, been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B791-7-14

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings. Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much and neglecting your hygiene. You spend less time with the people you care about. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been late. Additionally, in your work/study you use resources to gamble. You are being excluded from study.

B898-7-10

Your sibling's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed. You are experiencing depression. Within your religious/cultural community, you feel that you have shamed your family name. You experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. You feel belittled in your relationship.

B960-7-11

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel vulnerable. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are not eating as much as you should. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

B980-7-8

A close family member's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and distressed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. You are eating too much. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict.

B1000-7-9

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel extremely distressed and worthless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You have also taken on additional employment. You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict.

B1015-7-3

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You are late on bill payments. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about.

B1077-7-9

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed. Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also lost assets. You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You also do not attend fully to your children's needs and leave your children unsupervised. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B1120-7-10

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel vulnerable. You have less spending money. You are experiencing depression. You are eating too much. Your tobacco use is increasing. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended.

B1154-7-11

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

B1170-7-4

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed and hopeless. You have less spending money. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

B1181-7-7

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. You spend less time with the people you care about. Your relationship has ended.

B1281-7-9

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. Your tobacco use is increasing. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict.

B1408-7-13

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You feel belittled in your relationship and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B1443-7-10

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and distressed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are not eating as much as you should.

B1580-7-14

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are drinking more alcohol. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You feel belittled in your relationship. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). You are being excluded from study.

B1581-7-4

A close family member's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You are less physically active. You spend less time attending social events. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. Additionally, in your work/study you have conflict with colleagues.

B1612-7-11

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. At work/study you have been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression.

B1661-7-9

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You have also gone bankrupt. You are experiencing depression. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict.

B1725-7-12

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

B1733-7-6

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed and hopeless. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are less physically active. You spend less time attending social events. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B1778-7-8

Your child's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You also feel extremely distressed. You have reduced savings. You are not eating as much as you should. You are drinking more alcohol. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and promising to pay back money without intending to do so. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

B1817-7-6

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs.

B1821-7-5

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and hopeless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B14-8-4

Your sibling's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and distressed. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B61-8-8

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed and hopeless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). Your tobacco use is increasing. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict.

B86-8-13

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed and hopeless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You have also lost assets. You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

B270-8-8

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict.

B272-8-9

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. You have reduced savings and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B330-8-11

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed to sell personal items. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs and leave your children unsupervised. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended.

B372-8-15

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are not eating as much as you should. You are drinking more alcohol. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended.

B376-8-5

Your child's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and distressed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B558-8-13

Your sibling's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You also feel extremely distressed. You have less spending money. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and have conflict with colleagues.

B597-8-3

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments.

B742-8-5

A close family member's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are eating too much. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about.

B777-8-12

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You also feel vulnerable. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You feel belittled in your relationship. Additionally, in your work/study you use resources to gamble.

B804-8-16

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry, distressed and hopeless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are drinking more alcohol. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B888-8-10

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You are drinking more alcohol. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices and feel less connected. You are engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict.

B1041-8-14

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed and worthless. You are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. Your tobacco use is increasing. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B1127-8-14

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. You spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You feel belittled in your relationship.

B1162-8-14

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You also feel extremely distressed. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict.

B1222-8-8

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are eating too much. You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). You experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict.

B1225-8-6

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and distressed. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

B1232-8-14

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel vulnerable. Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You feel belittled in your relationship and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B1236-8-10

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, distressed and hopeless. You are not eating as much as you should. You are drinking more alcohol and neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time with the people you care about. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B1238-8-15

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B1239-8-11

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed. You have reduced savings and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended.

B1282-8-11

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B1288-8-10

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and distressed. You are less physically active. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended.

B1322-8-13

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and distressed. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active and neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You are engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B1421-8-11

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed and hopeless. You have reduced savings and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also taken on additional employment. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended.

B1606-8-5

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel vulnerable.

B1666-8-6

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression.

B1873-8-8

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You have also taken on additional employment. You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B1877-8-7

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, distressed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are eating too much.

B16-9-12

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). You experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You feel belittled in your relationship.

B72-9-9

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You also feel vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You feel belittled in your relationship and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B136-9-9

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You also feel extremely distressed. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are eating too much. You experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B184-9-10

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and distressed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

B199-9-6

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel hopeless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B202-9-5

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You are neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B220-9-6

A close family member's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel extremely distressed. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict.

B340-9-7

Your sibling's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, distressed and hopeless. You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended.

B345-9-11

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You also feel vulnerable. You have less spending money. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are neglecting your hygiene. You spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You feel belittled in your relationship.

B422-9-9

A close family member's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol. You spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

B433-9-4

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling.

B436-9-6

Your sibling's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. Within your religious/cultural community, you feel less connected.

B449-9-12

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You also feel extremely distressed. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You have also lost assets. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You spend less time attending social events. Your relationship has ended. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts and are being excluded from study.

B498-9-6

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, distressed and hopeless. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict.

B521-9-12

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed and hopeless. You have reduced savings and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You are less physically active. You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B535-9-6

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, distressed and hopeless. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B563-9-14

A close family member's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and distressed. You also feel vulnerable. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are less physically active. You spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

B575-9-8

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

B581-9-5

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and distressed. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. Your relationship has ended.

B609-9-17

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B627-9-8

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

B711-9-9

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B745-9-7

A close family member's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed and hopeless. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B754-9-17

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, distressed and hopeless. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). You spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You feel belittled in your relationship. Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression and have conflict with colleagues. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

B760-9-12

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and distressed. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are less physically active. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time with the people you care about. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B774-9-9

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel hopeless. You also feel vulnerable. You are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are using more health services. You are engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

B780-9-16

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You have also taken on additional employment. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active. You are not eating as much as you should. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. Within your religious/cultural community, you feel that you have shamed your family name. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict.

B809-9-16

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel vulnerable. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items, needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are not eating as much as you should. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs, have experiences with violence (include family/domestic) and leave your children unsupervised. You spend less time with the people you care about. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been absent. Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression.

B823-9-9

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. You also feel extremely distressed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are eating too much and less physically active. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict.

B858-9-10

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. At work/study you have been late.

B877-9-5

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

B908-9-12

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, distressed and hopeless. You also feel vulnerable. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended. Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression.

B911-9-4

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and distressed. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. Additionally, in your work/study you use resources to gamble.

B935-9-5

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and distressed. You have less spending money. You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

B942-9-9

Your child's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You spend less time with the people you care about. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B948-9-14

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You are experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You feel belittled in your relationship and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B971-9-11

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. You also feel extremely distressed. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict.

B999-9-6

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel hopeless. You also feel vulnerable. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

B1046-9-11

A close family member's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed. You also feel like a failure and vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You have less spending money. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed to sell personal items. You have also lost assets. You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are neglecting your hygiene. You have attempted suicide.

B1095-9-7

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You also do not attend fully to your children's needs and leave your children unsupervised. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended.

B1130-9-9

Your sibling's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are less physically active. You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. Additionally, in your work/study you have conflict with colleagues.

B1133-9-6

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). Within your religious/cultural community, you feel less connected. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

B1157-9-7

A close family member's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and distressed. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. At work/study you have been late. Additionally, in your work/study you use resources to gamble.

B1166-9-3

A close family member's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You are late on bill payments. You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic).

B1172-9-8

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices. You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

B1259-9-12

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You have reduced savings. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed to sell personal items. You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are experiencing depression. You are neglecting your hygiene. You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You spend less time attending social events. Your relationship has ended. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

B1286-9-5

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g.

insurance, car and home maintenance). Your tobacco use is increasing.

B1292-9-11

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and distressed. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You feel belittled in your relationship.

B1334-9-3

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel vulnerable. Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic).

B1346-9-13

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. Your relationship has ended.

B1450-9-5

A close family member's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been absent. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

B1503-9-8

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and hopeless. You are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast and feel that you have shamed your family name. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. Your relationship has ended.

B1561-9-4

A close family member's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed. You have reduced savings. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You spend less time with the people you care about.

B1603-9-16

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel vulnerable. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active. You spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B1621-9-6

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed and hopeless. You also feel vulnerable. You spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. Your relationship has ended.

B1622-9-11

Your sibling's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed and hopeless. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict.

B1659-9-11

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed and hopeless. You are late on bill payments. You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active. You have attempted suicide. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. Additionally, in your work/study you have conflict with colleagues.

B1677-9-7

A close family member's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure and vulnerable. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict.

B1678-9-16

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You feel belittled in your relationship and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B1717-9-5

A close family member's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation.

B1745-9-7

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You also feel extremely distressed and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B1870-9-13

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are drinking more alcohol. You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and use resources to gamble. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

B1900-9-4

A close family member's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel extremely distressed. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

B1923-9-6

A close co-worker/colleague's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are not eating as much as you should. Additionally, in your work/study you use resources to gamble.

B55-10-4

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and distressed. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict.

B77-10-10

Your sibling's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. You also feel extremely distressed. You are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict.

B195-10-10

A close family member's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry, distressed and hopeless. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). At work/study you have been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

B283-10-11

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel extremely distressed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). You spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B286-10-9

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry, distressed and hopeless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended.

B302-10-10

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You have less spending money. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B328-10-9

Your sibling's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and distressed. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. You are eating too much. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time with the people you care about.

B342-10-3

A close family member's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You have thoughts about escaping. You have less spending money. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about.

B353-10-5

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed and hopeless. You have reduced savings. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict.

B367-10-9

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed and hopeless. You are late on bill payments. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are drinking more alcohol. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. Your relationship has ended. Additionally, in your work/study you have conflict with colleagues.

B387-10-4

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

B488-10-5

A close co-worker/colleague's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed and hopeless. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B612-10-7

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and distressed. You have less spending money. You are drinking more alcohol. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs and leave your children unsupervised.

B617-10-16

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and hopeless. You also feel vulnerable. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are drinking more alcohol. You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). You spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

B690-10-16

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You have also needed emergency accommodation. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are less physically active. Your tobacco use is increasing. You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). You spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended.

B728-10-4

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed.

B755-10-9

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, distressed and hopeless. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict.

B793-10-18

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items, needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are eating too much and drinking more alcohol. Your tobacco use is increasing. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended.

B842-10-16

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are eating too much and drinking more alcohol. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict.

B850-10-7

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry, distressed and hopeless. You are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B890-10-10

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel extremely distressed. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B891-10-4

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed. You have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

B976-10-3

A close family member's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed and hopeless. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

B979-10-5

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You also feel extremely distressed. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression.

B1044-10-6

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel extremely distressed. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. Your relationship has ended.

B1073-10-8

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry, distressed and hopeless. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. You are engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

B1200-10-7

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You have less spending money.

Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). Your relationship has ended.

B1237-10-9

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, distressed and hopeless. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Your tobacco use is increasing. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict.

B1243-10-6

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry, distressed and hopeless. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time with the people you care about.

B1299-10-9

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed and hopeless. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You spend less time with the people you care about. Your relationship has ended.

B1349-10-13

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You have less spending money. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. You are eating too much and drinking more alcohol. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You also have been arrested for unsafe driving. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

B1446-10-3

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and hopeless. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict.

B1448-10-6

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You have attempted suicide. You also have been arrested for unsafe driving. You experience social isolation.

B1456-10-12

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and distressed. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You feel belittled in your relationship and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B1519-10-9

A close family member's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel extremely distressed. You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are not eating as much as you should. You are neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict.

B1522-10-4

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed and hopeless. You have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling.

B1532-10-4

A close co-worker/colleague's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and hopeless. You are late on bill payments. You feel belittled in your relationship.

B1552-10-8

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B1653-10-4

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel vulnerable. You are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B1669-10-17

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You also feel extremely distressed and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended.

B1679-10-8

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and distressed. You have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

B1749-10-10

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You are experiencing depression. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been late. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

B1752-10-9

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed and hopeless. You also feel vulnerable. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict.

B1786-10-10

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You spend less time with the people you care about. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B1789-10-2

A close co-worker/colleague's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You spend less time attending social events. Your relationship has ended.

B1844-10-6

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and experience social isolation.

B1851-10-6

Your sibling's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure. You have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression.

B1867-10-3

Your sibling's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

B19-11-6

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel vulnerable. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You also have experiences with violence (include family/ domestic). In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended.

B58-11-11

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You have also taken on additional employment. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict.

B74-11-9

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are not eating as much as you should. You are neglecting your hygiene. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You are engaging in petty theft/ dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

B97-11-12

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You also feel extremely distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. Your tobacco use is increasing. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B207-11-11

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B281-11-14

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and distressed. You also feel like a failure, vulnerable and worthless. You have less spending money and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are eating too much. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You feel belittled in your relationship.

B320-11-17

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). Within your religious/cultural community, you feel less connected. You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). You experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You feel belittled in your relationship.

B401-11-9

Your sibling's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and distressed. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B437-11-6

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed. You have reduced savings. Within your religious/cultural community, you feel that you have shamed your family name. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B477-11-4

A close family member's gambling is affecting your quality of life.

The gambling is making you feel angry. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). Your relationship has ended.

B522-11-20

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed to sell personal items. You have also lost assets. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended.

B540-11-9

Your sibling's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel hopeless. You also feel vulnerable. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B564-11-12

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are eating too much. You are not eating as much as you should. You spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict.

B586-11-7

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and hopeless. You have reduced savings and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict.

B619-11-13

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B647-11-9

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and hopeless. You have reduced savings. You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and experience social isolation.

B736-11-14

Your sibling's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and hopeless. You have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. Within your religious/cultural community, you feel that you have shamed your family name. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended.

B805-11-9

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and distressed. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B812-11-8

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel vulnerable. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. You spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation.

B825-11-9

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and distressed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are not eating as much as you should. You spend less time attending social events. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B955-11-20

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are not eating as much as you should. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices and feel less connected. You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). You spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. You feel belittled in your relationship.

B965-11-15

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B1008-11-9

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel vulnerable. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items, needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are not eating as much as you should. You experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended.

B1040-11-13

A close family member's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and vulnerable. You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Within your religious/cultural community, you feel that you have shamed your family name. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

B1079-11-13

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. You also feel extremely distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B1097-11-9

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed and hopeless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B1137-11-5

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

B1141-11-20

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You have less spending money, have reduced savings and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You have also taken on additional employment. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much. Your tobacco use is increasing. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs and leave your children unsupervised. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B1250-11-9

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are eating too much and less physically active. You spend less time attending social events. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

B1304-11-4

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You also feel extremely distressed. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling.

B1384-11-19

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. You also feel extremely distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are less physically active. You are not eating as much as you should. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

B1391-11-3

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel vulnerable. Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure).

B1394-11-4

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs and have experiences with violence (include family/domestic).

B1410-11-20

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been late and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B1474-11-13

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also taken on additional employment. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. At work/study you have been late and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B1493-11-9

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed. You have reduced savings, are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B1520-11-11

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You have reduced savings. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended.

B1524-11-11

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also lost assets, lost utilities (e.g. electricity) and have gone bankrupt. You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). Within your religious/cultural community, you feel that you have shamed your family name. You experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict.

B1531-11-9

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry, distressed and hopeless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are not eating as much as you should. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B1582-11-15

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed and hopeless. You also feel vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings. You are using more health services. You are also self-harming. You have attempted suicide and required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). Within your religious/cultural community, you feel that you have shamed your family name. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. Your relationship has ended. Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

B1626-11-17

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and distressed. You also feel vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression.

B1633-11-14

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and distressed. You also feel vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You have also lost assets. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

B1649-11-19

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices, feel less connected and feel that you have shamed your family name. You spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You feel belittled in your relationship.

B1662-11-17

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry, distressed and hopeless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. You have also taken on additional employment. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. You feel belittled in your relationship and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B1830-11-6

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You also feel extremely distressed. You are less physically active. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time attending social events. At work/study you have been late.

B44-12-6

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and hopeless. You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are not eating as much as you should. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. Additionally, in your work/study you have conflict with colleagues.

B108-12-6

Your sibling's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed and hopeless. You have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and promising to pay back money without intending to do so.

B133-12-19

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel extremely distressed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You also do not attend fully to your children's needs, have experiences with violence (include family/domestic) and leave your children unsupervised. You experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been late, been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble, use resources to gamble and have conflict with colleagues.

B276-12-24

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. You have also lost assets and have lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are not eating as much as you should. You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You feel belittled in your relationship and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

B337-12-9

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You are late on bill payments. You have also needed emergency accommodation and have lost utilities (e.g.

electricity). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You experience social isolation. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B388-12-20

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict.

B438-12-6

A close family member's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel hopeless. You also feel vulnerable. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. At work/study you have been absent. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

B455-12-6

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel hopeless. You also feel vulnerable. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression.

B480-12-6

A close family member's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed and hopeless. You are experiencing depression. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and experience social isolation. At work/study you have been late.

B502-12-15

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol. Your tobacco use is increasing. You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). You spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

B584-12-14

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You are eating too much. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. Your relationship has ended.

B648-12-18

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B675-12-15

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are drinking more alcohol. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. You feel belittled in your relationship and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B685-12-5

A close family member's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and hopeless. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict.

B696-12-20

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs and have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B704-12-6

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and distressed. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. Your tobacco use is increasing. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. Your relationship has ended.

B731-12-13

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are drinking more alcohol. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B752-12-5

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are not eating as much as you should. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected).

B768-12-15

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. Your relationship has ended.

B787-12-12

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. Your tobacco use is increasing. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B821-12-4

Your sibling's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You have reduced savings. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are using more health services.

B941-12-7

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, distressed and hopeless. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict.

B952-12-23

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also taken on additional employment, lost assets and have gone bankrupt. You spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B1001-12-9

Your sibling's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression.

B1069-12-10

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You also feel extremely distressed. You have less spending money. You have also needed emergency accommodation. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been absent.

B1107-12-12

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry, distressed and hopeless. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B1145-12-24

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry, distressed and hopeless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You have also lost assets. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression.

B1210-12-14

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel hopeless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You are experiencing depression. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. You feel belittled in your relationship. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

B1245-12-9

A close family member's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You have thoughts about escaping. Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). Within your religious/cultural community, you feel that you have shamed your family name. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression.

B1287-12-22

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. You are not eating as much as you should. You are neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B1407-12-21

Your sibling's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. You are less physically active. You are not eating as much as you should. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been late, been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

B1416-12-22

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed. You also feel like a failure, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. Within your religious/cultural community, you feel less connected. You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. Your relationship has ended. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts and are being excluded from study.

B1420-12-5

A close family member's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel extremely distressed. You have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

B1488-12-6

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You also feel extremely distressed. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. You feel belittled in your relationship and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B1640-12-12

Your sibling's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict.

B1663-12-15

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You also feel extremely distressed. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also needed emergency accommodation. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B1703-12-6

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and distressed. You are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

B1704-12-5

A close family member's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry, distressed and hopeless. You have less spending money and have reduced savings.

B1890-12-14

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry, distressed and hopeless. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict.

B1915-12-22

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You have also needed emergency accommodation, lost utilities (e.g. electricity) and have gone bankrupt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are not eating as much as you should. You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts and have been arrested for unsafe driving. Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been late and been absent. You have lost your job.

B1926-12-22

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also lost assets and have needed emergency accommodation. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions) and using more health services. You have attempted suicide. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices and are an outcast. You experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have been absent. Additionally, in your work/study you use resources to gamble. You have lost your job.

B40-13-15

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel hopeless. You also feel vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are not eating as much as you should. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices and feel less connected. You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). You spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B83-13-11

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You also feel extremely distressed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are less physically active. Your tobacco use is increasing. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B93-13-12

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry, distressed and hopeless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much. You also leave your children unsupervised. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about.

B99-13-9

A close co-worker/colleague's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, distressed and hopeless. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. At work/study you have been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B122-13-12

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You have less spending money. You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You also leave your children unsupervised. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You feel belittled in your relationship.

B141-13-11

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and distressed. You also feel vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B262-13-8

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed. You also feel vulnerable. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. You spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. Your relationship has ended. You are being excluded from study.

B292-13-11

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed. You have less spending money and are late on bill payments. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You feel belittled in your relationship and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B295-13-16

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices and feel less connected. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time with the people you care about. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have been absent.

B301-13-12

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. You feel belittled in your relationship.

B348-13-5

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed and hopeless. Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You have also lost assets and have lost utilities (e.g. electricity).

B349-13-15

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel vulnerable. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also lost assets. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B364-13-20

Your child's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much and drinking more alcohol. You feel belittled in your relationship.

B373-13-5

Your child's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed and hopeless. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

B420-13-9

Your child's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You feel belittled in your relationship.

B473-13-9

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

B479-13-4

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food).

B490-13-19

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. You also feel extremely distressed. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been late and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B499-13-15

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items and have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended.

B514-13-7

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. You are experiencing depression. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

B517-13-9

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry, distressed and hopeless. You have reduced savings. You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You also leave your children unsupervised. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict.

B531-13-12

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much and less physically active. You spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You feel belittled in your relationship.

B585-13-9

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, distressed and hopeless. You are late on bill payments. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. You are not eating as much as you should. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time with the people you care about.

B603-13-9

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry, distressed and hopeless. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B611-13-5

A close family member's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and distressed. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

B623-13-18

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are drinking more alcohol. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been late, been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B693-13-17

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are less physically active and using more health services. You are not eating as much as you should. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. At work/study you have been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B810-13-7

Your sibling's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed. You have less spending money. You have also needed emergency accommodation.

B844-13-21

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure and vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. You spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended.

B870-13-16

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and distressed. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict.

B928-13-9

A close family member's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

B981-13-7

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You spend less time with the people you care about. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B990-13-11

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and distressed. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much and drinking more alcohol. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict.

B1014-13-20

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are eating too much, less physically active and drinking more alcohol. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You feel belittled in your relationship. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression.

B1036-13-8

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and distressed. You have reduced savings. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You feel belittled in your relationship and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B1047-13-12

Your sibling's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and distressed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You feel belittled in your relationship.

B1049-13-8

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry, distressed and hopeless. You are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

B1096-13-11

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed. You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been late. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts and are being excluded from study.

B1113-13-7

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and hopeless. You have less spending money. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B1136-13-19

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. You are eating too much and drinking more alcohol. Within your religious/cultural community, you feel that you have shamed your family name. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you have conflict with colleagues.

B1156-13-12

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You also feel extremely distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B1160-13-10

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry, distressed and hopeless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You are experiencing depression. Your tobacco use is increasing. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. Your relationship has ended.

B1168-13-10

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You also feel extremely distressed. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict.

B1183-13-8

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. You are less physically active. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You are engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. At work/study you have been absent.

B1218-13-7

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. You are not eating as much as you should. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict.

B1293-13-5

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel hopeless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You spend less time with the people you care about.

B1297-13-6

Your sibling's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry, distressed and hopeless. You have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B1335-13-22

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also taken on additional employment and have lost assets. You are experiencing depression. You are not eating as much as you should. You are also self-harming. You have attempted suicide. You spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict.

B1342-13-22

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed and hopeless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have less spending money. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are drinking more alcohol. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs and have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been late and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use resources to gamble. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

B1362-13-19

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed and hopeless. You also feel worthless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are drinking more alcohol. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been late and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression.

B1418-13-9

Your sibling's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about.

B1466-13-16

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts and have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). You are engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues).

B1475-13-10

A close family member's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel extremely distressed. You have reduced savings and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You have also gone bankrupt. You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are using more health services. You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. Your relationship has ended. You have lost your job.

B1489-13-11

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and use resources to gamble.

B1504-13-8

A close co-worker/colleague's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble, use resources to gamble and have conflict with colleagues.

B1559-13-6

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry, distressed and hopeless. You are drinking more alcohol. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict.

B1565-13-7

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B1584-13-9

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel hopeless. You also feel vulnerable. You have less spending money. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. You also leave your children unsupervised. You spend less time with the people you care about. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B1639-13-19

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You also feel extremely distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are experiencing depression. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking, promising to pay back money without intending to do so and engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You also do not attend fully to your children's needs and leave your children unsupervised. You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. Additionally, in your work/study you use resources to gamble.

B1693-13-10

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs and leave your children unsupervised. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended.

B1794-13-15

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You also feel extremely distressed and worthless. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You have also lost assets. You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are not eating as much as you should. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. You feel belittled in your relationship. Additionally, in your work/study you have conflict with colleagues.

B7-14-9

Your child's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed and hopeless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You have also lost assets. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. You spend less time attending social events.

B22-14-6

Your sibling's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, distressed and hopeless. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling.

B35-14-5

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed and hopeless. You have also lost assets and have gone bankrupt. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about.

B57-14-9

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are eating too much. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). Your relationship has ended.

B80-14-10

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You have also lost assets. You experience social isolation.

B96-14-9

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel extremely distressed. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B123-14-5

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed and hopeless. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. Your relationship has ended. Additionally, in your work/study you have conflict with colleagues.

B210-14-10

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, distressed and hopeless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You experience social isolation.

B223-14-15

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You also feel vulnerable. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are neglecting your hygiene. You are also self-harming. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B287-14-14

A close family member's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended.

B319-14-4

Your child's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel extremely distressed. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You experience social isolation.

B344-14-8

Your child's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

B366-14-11

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed. You have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use resources to gamble.

B374-14-18

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You feel belittled in your relationship and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

B386-14-9

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed and hopeless. You have less spending money. Your tobacco use is increasing. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. At work/study you have been late.

B413-14-17

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel vulnerable. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are not eating as much as you should. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict.

B425-14-19

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are using more health services. You spend less time attending social events. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been late. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

B493-14-9

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You have thoughts about escaping. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are eating too much. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You spend less time with the people you care about. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B508-14-6

A close family member's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed and hopeless. You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B524-14-16

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You also leave your children unsupervised. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. At work/study you have been late and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B529-14-13

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed and hopeless. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are less physically active. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended.

B532-14-12

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. Additionally, in your work/study you use resources to gamble.

B579-14-23

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been late and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

B629-14-14

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B649-14-13

A close family member's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and distressed. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are less physically active. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression.

B673-14-14

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended.

B727-14-9

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs and have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). You spend less time attending social events.

B763-14-6

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You feel belittled in your relationship.

B788-14-20

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much and less physically active. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You feel belittled in your relationship.

B807-14-17

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure and vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are less physically active. Your tobacco use is increasing. You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B813-14-9

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed and hopeless. You are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended.

B867-14-13

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed and hopeless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items, needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are less physically active. You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. Your relationship has ended.

B984-14-16

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel vulnerable. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You are eating too much. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You feel belittled in your relationship and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B1053-14-11

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and hopeless. You are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You have also lost assets and have gone bankrupt. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B1056-14-5

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time attending social events. At work/study you have been late.

B1126-14-13

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol. You spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended. Additionally, in your work/study you use resources to gamble.

B1175-14-12

A close family member's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, distressed and hopeless. Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You have also lost assets and have needed emergency accommodation. You are experiencing depression. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so and engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. Additionally, in your work/study you have conflict with colleagues.

B1312-14-7

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry, distressed and hopeless. You have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B1320-14-6

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. You have less spending money, have reduced savings and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt.

B1354-14-4

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel hopeless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

B1411-14-7

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict.

B1430-14-6

Your child's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed. You also feel like a failure. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are eating too much.

At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B1496-14-13

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You have also lost assets. You are not eating as much as you should. You are drinking more alcohol. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B1534-14-18

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You have also lost assets. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. You are less physically active. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices and feel less connected. You experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B1549-14-22

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been late and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression and have conflict with colleagues.

B1550-14-7

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are less physically active and neglecting your hygiene. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B1564-14-16

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

B1614-14-19

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are not eating as much as you should. You are drinking more alcohol. You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B1645-14-12

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, distressed and hopeless. You also feel vulnerable and worthless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are experiencing depression. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation.

B1670-14-4

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance).

B1705-14-7

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B1801-14-21

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. You are eating too much. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B5-15-10

Your child's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Within your religious/cultural community, you feel that you have shamed your family name. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B18-15-14

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel hopeless. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are not eating as much as you should. You are drinking more alcohol. You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You feel belittled in your relationship. At work/study you have been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you have conflict with colleagues.

B21-15-14

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. Your tobacco use is increasing. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time with the people you care about. At work/study you have been absent. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

B54-15-15

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry, distressed and hopeless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are drinking more alcohol. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B91-15-16

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel extremely distressed. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you have conflict with colleagues. You have lost your job.

B198-15-14

Your sibling's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. You are experiencing depression. You are also self-harming. Within your religious/cultural community, you feel that you have shamed your family name. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B203-15-19

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You feel belittled in your relationship and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B244-15-10

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You also feel extremely distressed. You have reduced savings and are late on bill payments.

Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended.

B293-15-20

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are less physically active. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and use resources to gamble.

B312-15-13

Your child's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed and hopeless. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. Your tobacco use is increasing. You spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

B545-15-16

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should.

B599-15-23

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You have also gone bankrupt. You are experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are not eating as much as you should. You are drinking more alcohol and using more health services. You have attempted suicide. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and promising to pay back money without intending to do so. Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast and feel less connected. You also have been arrested for unsafe driving. You experience social isolation. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been late. Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression. You have lost your job.

B719-15-17

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression.

B785-15-5

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also lost assets. You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B789-15-8

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

B790-15-7

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, distressed and hopeless. Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so.

B792-15-11

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You have thoughts about escaping. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs, have experiences with violence (include family/domestic) and leave your children unsupervised. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict.

B864-15-13

A close family member's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel extremely distressed. You have reduced savings. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items and have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much and neglecting your hygiene. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

B879-15-12

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are drinking more alcohol. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you have conflict with colleagues.

B968-15-6

A close family member's gambling is affecting your quality of life. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You have also lost assets. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict.

B989-15-9

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You have thoughts about escaping. You are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items and have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You spend less time with the people you care about. Your relationship has ended.

B1007-15-12

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed. You have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You are experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing.

Within your religious/cultural community, you feel less connected. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B1017-15-14

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have reduced savings and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol. You spend less time attending social events. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

B1025-15-11

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You are late on bill payments. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been late and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B1051-15-12

A close family member's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. You also feel extremely distressed. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

B1067-15-14

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. You have reduced savings, are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items and have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You have also lost assets. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

B1068-15-9

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed and worthless. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B1140-15-13

Your child's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You also feel extremely distressed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also lost assets. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B1142-15-7

A close family member's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry, distressed and hopeless. You have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

B1165-15-16

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also taken on additional employment, lost assets and have needed emergency accommodation. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are not eating as much as you should. You are neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended.

B1185-15-13

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry, distressed and hopeless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B1212-15-16

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You have also taken on additional employment. You are eating too much. You also have experiences with violence (include family/ domestic). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended.

B1227-15-11

A close co-worker/colleague's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You feel belittled in your relationship.

B1233-15-13

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B1308-15-6

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed and hopeless. Your tobacco use is increasing. You spend less time with the people you care about. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you have conflict with colleagues.

B1313-15-9

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

B1324-15-9

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You have reduced savings. You are experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

B1345-15-4

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You spend less time with the people you care about.

B1412-15-24

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed to sell personal items. You have also lost assets. You are experiencing depression. You are neglecting your hygiene. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and promising to pay back money without intending to do so. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. Additionally, in your work/study you use resources to gamble. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

B1447-15-12

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B1507-15-8

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and distressed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). At work/study you have been late. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

B1566-15-22

Your child's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much and using more health services. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices, feel less connected and feel that you have shamed your family name. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use resources to gamble.

B1664-15-19

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B1676-15-21

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and distressed. You also feel vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much. You spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been late, been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression.

B1713-15-13

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and distressed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been late and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B1853-15-4

A close family member's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items

(e.g. medication, food).

B13-16-13

A close family member's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You have also taken on additional employment. You are neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts. Within your religious/cultural community, you feel less connected. You experience social isolation. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have been absent. You have lost your job.

B27-16-22

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and worthless. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items, needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended.

B62-16-7

Your sibling's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel extremely distressed. You have less spending money. You have also lost assets. You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B64-16-10

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed and hopeless. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. You spend less time attending social events. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B70-16-9

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed. You are experiencing depression. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B120-16-14

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much and less physically active. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

B174-16-23

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed and worthless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much and drinking more alcohol. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been late and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

B190-16-18

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are drinking more alcohol. You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B200-16-15

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems

(e.g. high blood pressure). You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict.

B222-16-26

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You have also taken on additional employment. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much. Your tobacco use is increasing. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been late and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

B250-16-15

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You have less spending money, have reduced savings and are late on bill payments. You have also lost assets. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are eating too much and drinking more alcohol. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B289-16-21

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are eating too much. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict.

B371-16-11

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry, distressed and hopeless. You have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling.

You are less physically active. You are not eating as much as you should. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Additionally, in your work/study you use resources to gamble.

B429-16-11

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You also feel extremely distressed. You are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also lost assets and have gone bankrupt. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

B512-16-13

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also taken on additional employment. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast. You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. Additionally, in your work/study you have conflict with colleagues. You are being excluded from study.

B569-16-13

Your sibling's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You have thoughts about escaping. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. You are neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast and feel less connected. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You are engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. Your relationship has ended. Additionally, in your work/study you have conflict with colleagues.

B659-16-16

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel extremely distressed. You are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much and less physically active. Your tobacco use is increasing. You spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended.

B698-16-8

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. You have also gone bankrupt. Your tobacco use is increasing. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. Your relationship has ended.

B721-16-18

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B758-16-25

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also needed emergency accommodation. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. You are eating too much. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. You feel belittled in your relationship. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression.

B802-16-11

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed. You have less spending money and are late on bill payments. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression.

B808-16-8

Your child's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You have reduced savings. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are experiencing depression. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

B871-16-7

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling.

B975-16-8

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel extremely distressed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are less physically active. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You feel belittled in your relationship. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use resources to gamble.

B1055-16-18

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You are experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are drinking more alcohol. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. You feel belittled in your relationship and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B1083-16-14

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel extremely distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You feel belittled in your relationship and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B1150-16-17

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You have also lost assets. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. Your relationship has ended.

B1180-16-22

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed to sell personal items. You have also taken on additional employment. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). You spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

B1186-16-7

A close family member's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, distressed and hopeless. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time with the people you care about.

B1196-16-17

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry, distressed and hopeless. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You have also taken on additional employment. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended.

B1223-16-8

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and promising to pay back money without intending to do so. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B1301-16-20

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and distressed. You also feel worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been late.

B1316-16-9

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry, distressed and hopeless. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. You are not eating as much as you should. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

B1343-16-22

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed. You also feel worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much and less physically active. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You feel belittled in your relationship and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression.

B1382-16-23

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are drinking more alcohol. You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You feel belittled in your relationship and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been late and been absent.

B1481-16-21

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items, needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You feel belittled in your relationship and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B1506-16-21

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. You also feel extremely distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are not eating as much as you should. You are neglecting your hygiene, neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions) and using more health services. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble, lack progression and use resources to gamble.

B1521-16-23

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also lost assets. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). Within your religious/cultural community, you feel that you have shamed your family name. You spend less time with the people you care about. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have been late and been absent. Additionally, in your work/study you use resources to gamble.

B1576-16-12

Your sibling's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are drinking more alcohol. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and lack progression.

B1607-16-9

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel worthless. You have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are not eating as much as you should. Within your religious/cultural community, you feel less connected. You spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. Your relationship has ended.

B1711-16-13

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry, distressed and hopeless. You have less spending money and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You have also lost assets. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol. At work/study you have been late and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression and have conflict with colleagues.

B1719-16-18

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also gone bankrupt. You are experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You also leave your children unsupervised. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

B1802-16-24

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel hopeless. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much, drinking more alcohol and neglecting your hygiene. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices and are an outcast. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs and have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been late and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use resources to gamble.

B1818-16-7

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You are less physically active. You experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended.

B1910-16-12

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry, distressed and hopeless. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are less physically active. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. At work/study you have been late. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and use resources to gamble.

B33-17-9

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and distressed. Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are not eating as much as you should. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

B76-17-15

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended.

B145-17-25

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items, needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also lost assets and have lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are not eating as much as you should. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs, have experiences with violence (include family/domestic) and leave your children unsupervised. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B150-17-20

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel extremely distressed. You are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items, needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are not eating as much as you should. You are using more health services. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression and have conflict with colleagues.

B152-17-19

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel hopeless. You also feel like a failure and vulnerable. You have less spending money. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You have also lost assets and have needed emergency accommodation. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are using more health services. You have attempted suicide. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices and are an outcast. You spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have been absent. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble. You are being excluded from study.

B157-17-16

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, vulnerable and worthless. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and use resources to gamble.

B228-17-16

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You have also taken on additional employment. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. You are drinking more alcohol. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict.

B238-17-5

Your sibling's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel extremely distressed. You have reduced savings. You have also needed emergency accommodation. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling.

B246-17-24

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You also feel vulnerable. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much, less physically active and neglecting your hygiene. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts, do not attend fully to your children's needs and have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). You are engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities, feel belittled in your relationship and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression.

B251-17-14

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry, distressed and hopeless. You are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are eating too much. Your tobacco use is increasing. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B377-17-22

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed to sell personal items. You have also lost assets. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs and have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B398-17-17

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel extremely distressed. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items, needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You spend less time attending social events. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B400-17-11

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You also feel extremely distressed. You have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been late.

B458-17-20

A close family member's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices and feel less connected. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You feel belittled in your relationship and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B501-17-13

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and promising to pay back money without intending to do so. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict.

B701-17-14

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You feel belittled in your relationship.

B718-17-17

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You have thoughts about escaping. You have less spending money, have reduced savings and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended.

B778-17-25

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are less physically active and neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You feel belittled in your relationship and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B801-17-13

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are less physically active. You are not eating as much as you should. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. Your relationship has ended.

B857-17-6

Your sibling's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You have less spending money. Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You are not eating as much as you should. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B884-17-16

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed. You also feel vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You have less spending money, have reduced savings and are late on bill payments. You have also taken on additional employment. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic) and leave your children unsupervised. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B994-17-12

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry, distressed and hopeless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed to sell personal items. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B1010-17-7

A close family member's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, distressed and hopeless. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are eating too much. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B1016-17-7

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel extremely distressed. You have reduced savings. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B1031-17-19

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. You also feel extremely distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. You are eating too much. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

B1205-17-17

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are eating too much. You spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended.

B1252-17-10

A close family member's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict.

B1265-17-13

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict.

B1303-17-10

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You also feel extremely distressed. You have less spending money and are late on bill payments. You are experiencing depression. You are drinking more alcohol. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). Your relationship has ended.

B1325-17-15

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are not eating as much as you should. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended.

B1329-17-29

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are neglecting your hygiene. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking, promising to pay back money without intending to do so and engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You feel belittled in your relationship and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been late, been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

B1348-17-7

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You also feel extremely distressed. You have less spending money. You are experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You spend less time with the people you care about. Your relationship has ended.

B1400-17-6

A close family member's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel extremely distressed. You are experiencing depression. You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B1437-17-20

A close family member's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are eating too much and drinking more alcohol. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. At work/study you have been late and been absent. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble, lack progression and use resources to gamble.

B1499-17-23

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much and less physically active. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You feel belittled in your relationship and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been late and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B1529-17-7

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict.

B1569-17-17

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are not eating as much as you should. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices and are an outcast. You spend less time attending social events. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

B1631-17-7

Your sibling's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. You also feel extremely distressed. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict.

B1683-17-12

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel hopeless. You also feel like a failure. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast. You spend less time attending social events. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been absent. You are being excluded from study.

B1716-17-20

A close co-worker/colleague's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity) and have gone bankrupt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. You are eating too much and neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs and have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. Your relationship has ended. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts and are being excluded from study.

B9-18-7

A close family member's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You are experiencing depression. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression. You are being excluded from study.

B82-18-10

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry, distressed and hopeless. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict.

B90-18-26

A close family member's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have been late and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

B173-18-7

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. You also feel extremely distressed. You spend less time with the people you care about. Your relationship has ended.

B181-18-6

A close family member's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and hopeless. You have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are not eating as much as you should.

B193-18-20

A close family member's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities, feel belittled in your relationship and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B194-18-8

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. Your relationship has ended.

B240-18-11

Your child's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You are experiencing depression. You are drinking more alcohol. You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. At work/study you have been late and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression.

B336-18-21

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. You have also lost assets and have lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts, have experiences with violence (include family/domestic) and have been arrested for unsafe driving. Within your religious/cultural community, you feel less connected. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts and are being excluded from study.

B359-18-11

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed and hopeless. You have less spending money and are late on bill payments. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use resources to gamble.

B419-18-7

Your sibling's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed and hopeless. You are experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B435-18-13

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You are eating too much. You spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You feel belittled in your relationship.

B461-18-13

Your child's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure. You have less spending money. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict.

B496-18-25

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much. You spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B500-18-16

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol. You experience social isolation. At work/study you have been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B537-18-11

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed and hopeless. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You have also gone bankrupt. You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You have attempted suicide. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts and leave your children unsupervised. You spend less time with the people you care about. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B620-18-23

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, distressed and hopeless. You are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You have also taken on additional employment. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. You are less physically active. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been late and been absent. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

B642-18-11

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, distressed and hopeless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are eating too much. You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B656-18-9

Your child's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You also feel extremely distressed. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

B681-18-16

A close family member's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. You also feel extremely distressed. You are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You also have been arrested for unsafe driving. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

B771-18-10

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry, distressed and hopeless. You have less spending money. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. At work/study you have been late.

B781-18-16

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You have also lost assets. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. You are less physically active. You are not eating as much as you should. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

B819-18-7

A close family member's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry, distressed and hopeless. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You feel belittled in your relationship.

B852-18-13

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure. You have reduced savings and are late on bill payments.

Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol. You feel belittled in your relationship and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B863-18-24

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are also self-harming. You have attempted suicide. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You feel belittled in your relationship.

B905-18-11

A close family member's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. You also feel extremely distressed. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. Within your religious/cultural community, you feel that you have shamed your family name. At work/study you have been late and been absent.

B964-18-12

Your sibling's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active. Your tobacco use is increasing. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. At work/study you have been absent. Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression.

B967-18-20

Your child's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much and drinking more alcohol. You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B1104-18-21

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol and using more health services. You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs and have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts and are being excluded from study.

B1122-18-12

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also lost assets, lost utilities (e.g. electricity) and have gone bankrupt. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended.

B1182-18-16

A close family member's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. Within your religious/cultural community, you feel that you have shamed your family name. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You feel belittled in your relationship and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B1285-18-8

Your sibling's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. You also feel extremely distressed. You have reduced savings. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You have also lost assets. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict.

B1372-18-9

A close family member's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed. You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and lack progression.

B1487-18-8

A close family member's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B1510-18-25

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and use resources to gamble.

B1646-18-12

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are neglecting your hygiene. You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast. You also have been arrested for unsafe driving. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

B1689-18-18

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed and hopeless. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are experiencing depression. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are drinking more alcohol. You spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. At work/study you have been late and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

B1742-18-25

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active, neglecting your hygiene and neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. Within your religious/cultural community, you feel less connected. You spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have been late and been absent.

B1862-18-11

Your sibling's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel extremely distressed. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You feel belittled in your relationship. At work/study you have been late. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and use resources to gamble.

B1869-18-8

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are eating too much. You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). Your relationship has ended. Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression.

B56-19-16

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have reduced savings. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are not eating as much as you should. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression.

B147-19-8

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended. Additionally, in your work/study you have conflict with colleagues.

B171-19-18

A close family member's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

B205-19-6

Your sibling's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B269-19-17

A close family member's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. You also feel extremely distressed. You have less spending money and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You have also lost assets. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities, feel belittled in your relationship and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B305-19-20

Your sibling's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You have reduced savings, are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have been late, been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression. You are being excluded from study.

B427-19-23

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active. You are not eating as much as you should. You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been late and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you have conflict with colleagues.

B446-19-29

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also lost assets and have lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs, have experiences with violence (include family/domestic) and leave your children unsupervised. Within your religious/cultural community, you feel less connected. You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and feel belittled in your relationship. At work/study you have been absent. Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression.

B482-19-16

A close family member's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and angry. You also feel vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are experiencing depression. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

B577-19-6

A close family member's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You have thoughts about escaping. Within your religious/cultural community, you feel that you have shamed your family name. You experience social isolation. You feel belittled in your relationship. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B687-19-21

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B847-19-8

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You are experiencing depression. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. Your relationship has ended.

B881-19-27

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry, distressed and hopeless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also taken on additional employment. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much, less physically active and using more health services. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended.

B920-19-10

A close co-worker/colleague's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You have reduced savings. Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). You neglect your relationship responsibilities. Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression.

B958-19-15

Your child's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression.

B1027-19-24

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are not eating as much as you should. You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). You spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended. Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression.

B1042-19-15

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You also feel extremely distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much, less physically active and drinking more alcohol. Your tobacco use is increasing. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B1043-19-9

Your child's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel extremely distressed. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. Additionally, in your work/study you use resources to gamble.

B1089-19-9

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed and hopeless. You have less spending money. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are drinking more alcohol. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. Additionally, in your work/study you have conflict with colleagues.

B1171-19-8

Your sibling's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed and hopeless. You also feel vulnerable. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict.

B1199-19-25

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use resources to gamble.

B1307-19-16

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been late. You are being excluded from study and have lost your job.

B1326-19-15

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You have thoughts about escaping. You have less spending money, have reduced savings and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You have also lost assets. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you have conflict with colleagues.

B1352-19-24

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items, needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also lost assets. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol, neglecting your hygiene and neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended.

B1376-19-23

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also gone bankrupt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are drinking more alcohol. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You are engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended.

B1390-19-18

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B1431-19-14

A close family member's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items and have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You have also lost assets. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. Your relationship has ended. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

B1468-19-18

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel vulnerable. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. You are eating too much. You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B1471-19-10

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You also feel extremely distressed. You are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict.

B1608-19-23

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You have less spending money, have reduced savings and are late on bill payments. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been late and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and use resources to gamble. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

B1687-19-21

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are neglecting your hygiene. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been late, been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B1702-19-23

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You have less spending money, have reduced savings and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items and have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are not eating as much as you should. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B1712-19-6

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You also feel extremely distressed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. You experience social isolation.

B1751-19-27

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You also feel vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active and using more health services. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been late, been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

B1924-19-29

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items

(e.g. medication, food). You have also taken on additional employment. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. You are less physically active, drinking more alcohol and neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You are not eating as much as you should. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking, promising to pay back money without intending to do so and engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

B6-20-6

A close family member's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Within your religious/cultural community, you feel that you have shamed your family name. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

B126-20-21

Your child's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and feel belittled in your relationship.

B155-20-12

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You also feel extremely distressed. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You have also lost assets. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You have attempted suicide. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so and engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You experience social isolation. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have been absent. You are being excluded from study.

B247-20-6

Your sibling's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel extremely distressed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You spend less time attending social events.

B325-20-26

Your sibling's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much and using more health services. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and feel belittled in your relationship. At work/study you have been late, been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and use resources to gamble.

B474-20-18

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time attending social events. You neglect your relationship responsibilities.

B567-20-9

Your sibling's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You have also needed emergency accommodation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B610-20-17

Your sibling's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

B779-20-8

A close family member's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed and hopeless. You have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. Within your religious/cultural community, you feel that you have shamed your family name. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B783-20-28

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are drinking more alcohol. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression.

B835-20-12

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel extremely distressed. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also lost assets. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You spend less time attending social events. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B1105-20-11

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You also feel extremely distressed. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are neglecting your hygiene. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B1114-20-19

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed to sell personal items. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been late, been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

B1254-20-9

A close family member's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and feel belittled in your relationship.

B1350-20-24

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much and less physically active. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression.

B1373-20-18

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol. Your tobacco use is increasing. You spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B1528-20-18

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, distressed and hopeless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. You are drinking more alcohol. You spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been late. Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression.

B1536-20-16

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are drinking more alcohol. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression.

B1665-20-9

Your sibling's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry, distressed and hopeless. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. Within your religious/cultural community, you feel that you have shamed your family name. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B1773-20-11

Your sibling's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict.

B1912-20-15

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You also feel extremely distressed. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You have also lost assets. You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are drinking more alcohol and neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast. You also have been arrested for unsafe driving. You experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

B1920-20-25

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and worthless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You have also lost assets. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts, do not attend fully to your children's needs and have been arrested for unsafe driving. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been absent. Additionally, in your work/study you use resources to gamble. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts and are being excluded from study.

B45-21-14

Your child's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed and hopeless. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items, needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also lost assets. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. Your tobacco use is increasing.

B132-21-14

Your sibling's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are eating too much. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B288-21-8

Your sibling's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You have less spending money. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You spend less time with the people you care about. Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression.

B291-21-11

Your sibling's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You also feel extremely distressed. Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices. You experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble. You are being excluded from study.

B324-21-6

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and distressed. You have reduced savings. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict.

B406-21-14

A close family member's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You have thoughts about escaping. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended.

B593-21-18

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed and hopeless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You have also taken on additional employment. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking, promising to pay back money without intending to do so and engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You also do not attend fully to your children's needs and leave your children unsupervised. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B674-21-20

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You also feel extremely distressed and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). You have also taken on additional employment. You are less physically active. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs and have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended.

B767-21-13

A close family member's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, distressed and hopeless. You have less spending money and are late on bill payments. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

B1086-21-23

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, distressed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, vulnerable and worthless. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol. You are not eating as much as you should. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been late and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B1108-21-18

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and worthless. You have less spending money. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are drinking more alcohol and neglecting your hygiene. You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts and do not attend fully to your children's needs. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been absent. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble. You are being excluded from study.

B1188-21-14

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed and hopeless. You have reduced savings and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed to sell personal items. You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Within your religious/cultural community, you feel less connected. You spend less time with the people you care about. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B1194-21-8

Your sibling's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You also feel extremely distressed. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict.

B1571-21-6

Your sibling's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed. You have reduced savings and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension.

B1602-21-27

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have less spending money, have reduced savings and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much, less physically active, drinking more alcohol and neglecting your hygiene. Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You feel belittled in your relationship and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B1605-21-11

A close family member's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed and hopeless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are experiencing depression. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B1708-21-11

A close family member's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended.

B1878-21-14

Your sibling's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed. You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B259-22-15

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You have also taken on additional employment. You are eating too much and neglecting your hygiene. You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. Within your religious/cultural community, you feel that you have shamed your family name. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and lack progression. You are being excluded from study and have lost your job.

B317-22-8

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel distressed and hopeless. You are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B519-22-15

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You also feel vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs, have experiences with violence (include family/domestic), leave your children unsupervised and have been arrested for unsafe driving. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end.

B726-22-13

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended.

B741-22-14

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and hopeless. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You also do not attend fully to your children's needs and leave your children unsupervised. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict.

B860-22-20

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You are experiencing depression. You are not eating as much as you should. You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). Within your religious/cultural community, you feel that you have shamed your family name. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. At work/study you have been late, been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B916-22-10

Your sibling's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry, distressed and hopeless. You are late on bill payments. You have also needed emergency accommodation. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B1624-22-25

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. You are eating too much, drinking more alcohol, neglecting your hygiene and neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are also self-harming. You have attempted suicide. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts and do not attend fully to your children's needs. Within your religious/cultural community, you are an outcast and feel less connected. You experience social isolation. You feel belittled in your relationship. At work/study you have been absent. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and use resources to gamble. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts and have lost your job.

B1655-22-24

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing depression. You are not eating as much as you should. You are drinking more alcohol. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. At work/study you have been late, been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B1852-22-10

A close co-worker/colleague's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry, distressed and hopeless. You have less spending money and have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. At work/study you have been absent. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and use resources to gamble.

B407-23-30

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also taken on additional employment and have gone bankrupt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are not eating as much as you should. You are neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B1241-23-24

A close family member's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry, distressed and hopeless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active and drinking more alcohol. Your tobacco use is increasing. You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B1406-23-15

Your sibling's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. At work/study you have been absent. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

B1735-23-27

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items, needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also needed emergency accommodation and have gone bankrupt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much, drinking more alcohol and neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). Your tobacco use is increasing. You have attempted suicide. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs, have experiences with violence (include family/domestic) and leave your children unsupervised. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time with the people you care about. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B36-24-14

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, distressed and hopeless. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are eating too much and neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). Your tobacco use is increasing. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict.

B48-24-25

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much, less physically active and drinking more alcohol. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You also have been arrested for unsafe driving.

In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended. Additionally, in your work/study you have conflict with colleagues.

B282-24-24

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel extremely distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing depression. You are also self-harming. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and promising to pay back money without intending to do so. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs, leave your children unsupervised and have been arrested for unsafe driving. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. At work/study you have been late and been absent. Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble and lack progression.

B939-24-25

Your child's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have reduced savings and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are not eating as much as you should. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking, promising to pay back money without intending to do so and engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts. You experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities, feel belittled in your relationship and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B1028-24-6

A close family member's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You have less spending money and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You have also taken on additional employment. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time with the people you care about.

B1034-24-11

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel vulnerable. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended.

B1143-24-9

Your sibling's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and distressed. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. You are promising to pay back money without intending to do so. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble.

B1593-24-8

Your sibling's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry, distressed and hopeless. You have reduced savings and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict.

B1636-24-9

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You have also lost assets and have gone bankrupt. You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. You have attempted suicide. Your relationship has ended. You have lost your job.

B1775-24-14

A close family member's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You are late on bill payments. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. Within your religious/cultural community, you feel less connected. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time with the people you care about. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B670-25-19

Your parent's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed to sell personal items. You have also gone bankrupt. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much. You experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict.

B922-25-11

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have reduced savings. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression.

B1112-25-15

Your child's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict.

B1251-25-19

Your sibling's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure and extremely distressed. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). Your tobacco use is increasing. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about and spend less time with the people you care about. In your relationships you're experiencing greater conflict. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B566-26-40

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also needed emergency accommodation. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g.

high blood pressure). You are less physically active. You are not eating as much as you should. You are engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about, spend less time attending social events and experience social isolation. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been late and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use this time to gamble, lack progression and use resources to gamble. You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts.

B1070-26-29

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and vulnerable. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out) and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed assistance from welfare organisations. You have also taken on additional employment and have lost assets. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are drinking more alcohol, neglecting your hygiene and neglecting your medical needs (e.g. taking prescriptions). You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). Within your religious/cultural community, you have reduced your contribution to practices and are an outcast. You also leave your children unsupervised. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and experience social isolation. You neglect your relationship responsibilities. At work/study you have been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). Additionally, in your work/study you use resources to gamble.

B1922-26-27

Your sibling's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, distressed and hopeless. You also feel like a failure and vulnerable. You spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You have also lost assets. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking, promising to pay back money without intending to do so and engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts and do not attend fully to your children's needs. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension. You neglect your relationship responsibilities and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been late, been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B865-27-18

Your child's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are drinking more alcohol. You spend less time attending social events. You feel belittled in your relationship. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B946-27-13

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You have less spending money and are late on bill payments. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You also do not attend fully to your children's needs. You spend less time with the people you care about. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. Additionally, in your work/study you lack progression.

B1074-27-10

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You also feel extremely distressed. You have thoughts about escaping. You are experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B1082-27-14

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. You have reduced savings, are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt. You have also needed emergency accommodation. You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You spend less time with the people you care about. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been late, been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

B1085-27-14

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel angry. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. Additionally, you have needed to sell personal items. You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are neglecting your hygiene. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been absent. You are being excluded from study and have lost your job.

B1213-27-28

Your sibling's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have less spending money. Additionally, you have increased credit card debt and have needed to sell personal items. You have also lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are less physically active. You are also living in unhygienic conditions (e.g. living rough, neglected). You have required emergency medical treatment due to gambling related issues. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking and engaging in petty theft/dishonesty with professional enterprises (e.g. governments, businesses, colleagues). You also feel compelled to commit a crime to fund gambling or pay debts, leave your children unsupervised and have been arrested for unsafe driving. You spend less time with the people you care about. Your relationship has ended. At work/study you have been late, been absent and reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction). You are being hindered in your job-seeking efforts and are being excluded from study.

B1399-27-9

Your close friend's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed and hopeless. You have also lost assets. You are losing sleep due to spending time gambling. You are taking money/items from family or friends without asking. You also have experiences with violence (include family/domestic). You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about. You are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have been late.

B1494-27-28

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel like a failure, extremely distressed, vulnerable and worthless. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings, spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out), are late on bill payments and have reduced spending on beneficial expenses (e.g. insurance, car and home maintenance). Additionally, you have increased credit card debt, needed to sell personal items, needed assistance from welfare organisations and have reduced your spending on essential items (e.g. medication, food). You have also lost assets and have lost utilities (e.g. electricity). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, losing sleep due to spending time gambling and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. Your relationship has ended.

B1577-27-27

Your spouse's gambling is affecting your quality of life. The gambling is making you feel ashamed, angry and hopeless. You also feel extremely distressed and vulnerable. You have thoughts about escaping. You have reduced savings and spend less recreationally (e.g. movies, eating out). You are losing sleep due to worrying about gambling, experiencing depression and are experiencing stress related health problems (e.g. high blood pressure). You are eating too much and less physically active. Your tobacco use is increasing. Within your religious/cultural community, you feel less connected and feel that you have shamed your family name. You don't get enjoyment from spending time with people you care about, spend less time with the people you care about and spend less time attending social events. In your relationships you're experiencing greater tension and conflict. You neglect your relationship responsibilities, feel belittled in your relationship and are concerned that your relationship will result in separation or end. At work/study you have reduced your performance (e.g. due to tiredness or distraction).

> sink()